One Mad King, Dead
Your Mysterious Glands
When the Door Closes
The Strike—Yes or No?
By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1921.

The mad Ludwig, once king of Bavaria, is reported dead. He lived to see many other kings as mad as he, that thought themselves sane, toppling off their thrones.

Maddest of all are some of the European nations that would set up kings once more, to drill them, march them and play with them in war.

In an electric lighting system you see metal boxes, fuses, various complicated connections. If there is trouble there, there is no light.

In the human body you find various glands, "ductless." Formerly nobody knew their use. These mysterious glands are as important to the body as an electric supply, water supply or heat supply to a building.

If the thyroid gland is defective, the child becomes idiotic. By feeding thyroid glands of animals, mental efficiency is restored.

The adrenal glands control circulation of the blood of life and heat throughout the system. Powder put on an open wound will stop flowing of blood instantly. In public schools, in Chicago, to correct mental defects in children, glands of sheep will be used. Some will be horrified to think that man is so much a machine as to be benefited mentally, therefore spiritually, by part of the carcass of a sheep.

The horror is not justified. The body is the machine through which the spirit works. If the body goes out of order, the spirit cannot express itself.

Paderewski could not play his piano if you cut half the chords, and put the rest out of tune.

The body is the piano, the spirit is Paderewski. The piano tuner fixes the piano that Paderewski may play. The physical doctor fixes the body that the spirit may express itself through it. More power to the gland experiments in Chicago and everywhere else.

Rademacher, policeman that threw his wife into the water, began yesterday his term of life imprisonment. We know approximately what happens to him after the prison door in Marquette closes behind him. The narrow cell, the monotony, the life a good deal worse than death.

More interesting would be to know what happened to his wife, after the water and the door of death closed upon her. What happens when the door closes on this life and another door opens? How far apart are the prisoner, thinking it over on the edge of his narrow bed, in the night, and the spirit of the wife, driven by fire.

What is postponed does not happen sometimes. President Harding's tact may at least postpone the railroad strike. On both sides there is evidence of uncertainty and dislike of extreme measures.

Among the workers there is lack of harmony. The men of the big Pennsylvania Railroad will go out last. There is some doubt if they will go out at all, as many would forfeit pension rights.

The men that are ordered out first, to set the example and break the ground, do not like it.

In addition, leaders of the men realize that the strike will have to be won in the face of government determination to prevent violence, to man trains with troops, if necessary, offering jobs to the five millions of men looking for them, including many ex-soldiers, used to firearms.

When the war ended, government discovered that it has real power that can be used.

This country might even do by Congressional action what the radical French republic did when it ordered striking railroad men into the army. They drafted the men as soldiers to run trains, the penalty being death for refusal to obey military orders.

It is prospectors, however, that it should be necessary to talk of such measures in connection with a great public necessity. Railroads belong to the people, cover ground given by the people, have been built by the business, money and services of the people. They are an absolute necessity, being to the nation what veins and arteries are to the human body.

The people stand against the veins and arteries of industry. They are willing to pay what it costs to transport goods and freight, including good wages to workmen and fair profit on capital.

And there ought to be intelligence enough in the United States to compel railroads to run on a basis of fairness to labor, capital and the public.

Of all weaknesses, the worst, most dangerous, is fear. Miss Mary Lichsgraf determined that no automobile bandit should take her by surprise. She went motoring with Mr. Brodebeck, and held a pistol ready in her lap. There came a mysterious sound, and Miss Lichsgraf instantly shot her host, Mr. Brodebeck, in the head. Mr. Brodebeck, who will probably recover, has learned about women what he didn't know before, and would rather have the bandit hold the revolver.

MOBILIZE GUARD IN STRIKE CRISIS

Six States to Act as Unit in Keeping People Supplied, Cox Announces

All the troops of the six New England States will be mobilized, if necessary, to give protection to railway operators and keep food and fuel moving in the event of a railway strike.

Governor Channing H. Cox announced today that the Governors of the other five New England States were in perfect accord with him.

Plans for relieving the inevitable suffering which will follow a rail strike will be carried out on a broad New England basis. Motor truck transportation will be arranged in the same way, with New England as the unit.

"We have decided to carry all our eggs in the same basket," said Governor Cox. "I have the personal assurances of the other five that they will act a unit in relieving New England should the threat of a strike be made good."

Delegates from the New England States will meet at the State House tomorrow to lay plans for the emergency. These delegates represent various committees in their several States.

Howard Coonley, chairman of the Massachusetts committee, was in conference with the governor today and the appointment of the executive committee which will aid the big "Committee of four" was discussed.

DECLARE RAIL MEN WILL NOT STRIKE

A. F. L. Leaders Believe Danger of Nation-Wide Walkout Has Vanished

By International News Service.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Strike action by the 1,500,000 railroad workers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor now awaits the outcome of the peace conference of the Railroad Labor Board with the "Big Four" brotherhoods.

The federation railroad unions will formulate the policy to be followed, but will defer action, leaders announced today, until the brotherhoods determine whether they would carry out their strike program.

The A. F. of L. leaders believe the danger of a general strike has vanished. In their opinion the brotherhood chiefs will accept the compromise plan offered by the Labor Board. All along they have privately expressed the opinion that the brotherhoods' action was more bluff than anything else and the Big Four chiefs were merely waiting for an opportunity to back out of the situation in the most graceful way possible.

The Railway Labor Board has decided to request the roads to recall their request for a cut in wages and to ask the unions to rescind the call for a strike. The board's plans follow:

1—An immediate reduction in freight rates absorbing the 12½ per cent. wage cut of last July.

2—An appeal to shippers to pass the reduction along to the consumers in a lower cost of living.

3—A request to the railroads not to press demands for further wage cuts until the whole ad-

GENERAL ARMANDO DIAZ

'ITALY'S MAN OF DESTINY' GETS BIG WELCOME

By Associated Press

New York, Oct. 19.—New York arose bright and early today to give a thunderous welcome to General Armando Diaz, Italy's "man of destiny."

Destroyers and seaplanes journeyed down the harbor to greet the Giuseppe Verdi, bringing to these shores the man who commanded the armies of Italy during the World War and who has come to join American veterans at their legion's convention in Kansas City.

Army and navy might pay their salute with roaring cannon, but New York's Little Italy insisted on greeting its hero in its own way. Down to Battery Park tramped the swarthy sons of that boot-shaped peninsula.

On the up of Manhattan Island they took their stand, facing the Statue of Liberty, to shout their "bravos" when their idol stepped ashore.

But while the bulk of the welcoming army held its position at the battery, the vanguard embarked on a municipal ferry to flounder down the bay in the wake of the swift destroyers to bear greetings to the general even before he set foot on the new world.

As General Diaz stepped ashore and stood at salute, the cheers echoed up through the canyons formed by the skyscrapers along Broadway. Three hundred police, 100 of them mounted, escorted the General to the City Hall, where Governor Miller and Mayor Hylan were waiting. Lower Broadway stopped business and shouted its welcome. Every window in the tall buildings was crowded with people anxious to get a glimpse of the General.

HARDING WARNS OF CRISIS

Appeals for Support to Save Educational System of United States

By Associated Press.

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 19—Declaring the nation confronts an "educational crisis" through lack of teachers and public school facilities, President Harding appealed in an address here today for patriotic support of an educational system commensurate with national resources.

"I wish it were possible," said the President, "to drive home to the whole American people the conviction of needed concern for our educational necessities. We must have more and better teachers, and to get them the profession must be compensated as it deserves."

Mr. Harding spoke before a gathering of students and alumni of the College of William and Mary as part of a ceremony which inducted Dr. J. A. C. Chandler into the presidency of the institution. An honorary degree was conferred on the chief executive, who came here with a distinguished group of government officials after delivering an address during the morning at Yorktown.

NOT FOREIGN SCHOOLS

"It is no exaggeration," said President Harding, "to say that the nation confronts an educational crisis. From every corner of the land, from country town and city, comes the same report that the housing capacity for our public schools is inadequate; that tens of thousands of pupils have no place for their studies; that teachers cannot be listed in sufficient numbers, and that school revenues are insufficient.

"It may be said that, in this realm of education, we have been drawing on our capital, instead of spending the annual increment only; we have been taking the teachers away from the schools, and leaving a constantly increasing deficit in our capacity to turn out that product of disciplined minds which only can be secured through ever-expanding facilities.

"Let me hasten to add that this is not a condition which leads me to pessimism or misgivings. I would not wish it to be otherwise. No people ever approached the invidness with which, from public revenues and private purses, Americans have given to support education, yet, the more generously we provide today, the greater is the deficiency tomorrow, and I am glad it is thus. So long as the eagerness for education outruns our most generous provision of facilities, there will be assurance that we are going ahead, not backward.

OBJECT TO CREW OF ELSIE

Canadians Claim Five on the American Defender Are Not Bona-Fide Fishermen

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 19.—Canadian followers of the international fishermen's race were aroused today over a report that no less than five members of the crew of the cup-defending schooner Elsie of Gloucester, scheduled to meet the Canadian challenger Bluenose Saturday, are not bona fide fishermen.

The deed of gift states that only active fishermen shall comprise the crews of the schooners competing for the international trophy.

The Elsie is expected to arrive here today, according to one of the trustees of the trophy. The non-fishermen members of the crew will then be asked to step ashore and allow bona fide members of the sailing to take their places.

A rumor, not generally credited, found Halifax today was to the effect that Captain Marty Welch, skipper of the Elsie, had voiced objections to the Bluenose as a contender and that he would sail the Elsie only under protest, holding that the Bluenose was built and financed on much the same lines as the Nova Scotian schooner Mayflower, which was barred from the race.

Men who know ships and sailing and who have compared the two schooners agree that the American boat has the best chances. She is sharper than the Bluenose and she does not drag her stern, as does the Canadian challenger. The Elsie's rigging sets trimmer and is more workable.

Lufkin to Represent America at Race

President Harding today appointed Collector of Customs Wilfred W. Lufkin to be America's official representative at the International Fishermen's Race at Halifax Saturday.

The President's letter follows:

"My Dear Mr. Lufkin—Learning that the U. S. S. Bushnell has been detailed to attend the International Fishermen's Race at Halifax Oct. 22, I am writing you in view of the fact that you will be a member of the ship's company, to ask you to serve as representative of the United States

Bathing Beauty of Film Fame Is Mother of Twins

VERA STEDMAN
Who has stopped making pictures temporarily, following an interesting event at her Los Angeles home. (World Wide Photos.)

New York, Oct. 19.—Vera Steadman, well known Los Angeles film beauty, began her cinema career as the star in a wrestler. Subsequently she appeared in scores of two-reelers.

She must have gotten the habit, for Miss Steadman (who is in private life Mrs. Jack Taylor) presented Mr. Taylor with twin daughters.

Miss Steadman was formerly with the Christie company, among the pioneers in the school of comedies that made the name famous for its bathing girls and costumes. Miss Steadman expects to get back into her bathing suit as soon as the twins are old enough to be entrusted to a nurse.

In the meantime, mother and children, according to an enthusiastic wire from Mr. Taylor, are doing splendidly.

Angered Elements in Paris Declare American Flag Will Be Torn Down

Paris, Oct. 19—(By the Associated Press.)—Threats to tear down the American flag over the American embassy here are contained in many letters which have been received at the embassy protesting against the conviction of Nicolo Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, Italians, for the murder of Frederick A. Parmentar, a Braintree, Mass., paymaster.

In all, between 350 and 400 letters of protest have been received, at the rate of more than 100 a day.

There have been numerous demonstrations by radical elements in Italy over this case, and the communist newspapers here in Paris have taken up the campaign, urging their followers to protest to the embassy and announcing a mass meeting for Friday.

It is reported an attempt to demonstrate in front of the embassy is being planned to follow this meeting.

The Paris police and the French ministry of foreign affairs have been notified by the embassy of the receipts of the letters of protest.

FRENCH FRIENDS OF SACCO THREATEN TO TEAR DOWN U. S. FLAG

WARNING LETTERS RECEIVED AT EMBASSY IN PARIS

cluding those which carried the threats, and the State Department in Washington also has been informed. The Ministry of the Interior has been asked to take action in the case.

The police and the French government departments have initiated precautionary measures. The embassy, it is stated, will be well guarded, both on Friday and later.

A pamphlet attacking American justice and the American government was circulated widely in the Paris street cars yesterday, and a copy of the pamphlet was delivered at the embassy today.

Threats Made During Trial in Sacco Case

Bartholomew Vanzetti and Nicolo Sacco were convicted by a jury of the murder in the first degree of Paymaster Frederick Parmenter and Guard Alessandro Berardelli, employes of the Slater & Morrell shoe factory in South Braintree, April 15, 1920, after one of the most sensational trials in the history of the Commonwealth. The Italian government, radicals and prominent society people rallied to their defence.

Threats said to have been made against the witnesses and others connected with the case caused armed guards to be placed about the court at Dedham during the trial.

The men are now in State Prison at Charlestown, sentence having been stayed. The time for filing exceptions was extended to November 1.

The murder of the paymaster and his guard occurred in South Braintree in broad daylight and a payroll of $15,000 was taken. Four desperadoes ambushed their victims within sight of the factory, repeated volleys from revolvers and rifles being fired until the men dropped.

As the robbers secured their booty they fled in an automobile.

Sacco and Vanzetti were arrested on May 5 and at once leading radicals sprang to their defense. A defense committee was organized and a huge sum raised to defray the cost of the trial. Prominent contributors to the fund were Mrs. Gardenover Evans, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Professor Harry W. L. Dana and others.

Witnesses identified both men as having been in the murder car, and after a trial lasting six weeks and costing the State $30,000 they were found guilty.

At the jury returned its verdict after deliberating five hours and fifteen minutes Sacco shouted "You have killed two innocent men."

It was charged that the case was a "frame-up" against the Italians as a sequel to what the defense backers termed "the violent campaign of lawlessness of the Department of Justice" which culminated May 1, 1920, in the tragic death of Andrea Salsedo, who fell 14 stories to death in New York while a prisoner of U. S. secret service men.

The defence committee charged that Vanzetti and Sacco incurred official enmity because they took steps for the release of Robert Ellis, held for several months with Salsedo.

The defence alleged that certain shells from a pistol used as evidence against the men had been tampered with.

STATUE OF JACKSON UNVEILED IN VIRGINIA

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 19.—Stonewall Jackson, American military hero, was commemorated today when an equestrian statue of the southern warrior was unveiled here, asserting that Stonewall Jackson's campaigns were equal to those of Napoleon. Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, in unveiling the statue, declared the United States owed its progress to men such as Jackson.

FAIL TO HOLD AUTOIST FOR DEATH OF CHILD

Judge Dowd in Municipal Court today ordered the discharge of Joseph F. Dandale of Cedar street, Roxbury, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of five-year-old Ellen Walsh, No. 41 Astor street, at Norway and Falmouth streets, Back Bay, October 13. The little girl ran in front of Dandale's auto.

NORTH END MAN PAYS FINE FOR CARRYING GUN

Samuel Ross of Garden street, North End, in Municipal Court today was charged with having violated the law against having liquor on a park reservation and also with carrying a revolver. He pleaded not guilty to the former charge and it was placed on file. The charge of carrying a concealed weapon he admitted and paid a fine of $100.

Three Found Dead in Basement at Pawtucket

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick, and an elderly man who was visiting them, but who has not been identified, were found dead today in the basement of a house in East avenue, occupied by the McCormicks.

A gas jet was open.

Bottles and glasses with a strong whiskey odor were found on the kitchen table.

Medical Examiner French said that he found a gas tube attached to a chandelier, apparently used for a story which was not connected. Gas was escaping, and from this he deduced that some one of the party had turned a wrong jet by mistake.

INSANITY PLEA IN MINISTER'S MURDER TRIAL

By Associated Press.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 19.—Combined with further attempts to substantiate a plea of insanity, the defence in the trial of the Rev. Edwin R. Stephenson today started out to build a self-defence foundation.

Stephenson is charged with second degree murder in connection with the slaying of Father James E. Coyle, a few hours after the priest had married Ruth Stephenson, daughter of the defendant, to Pledro Gunsman, a communicant of Father Coyle's church.

Fred McDuff, chief deputy of the sheriff's office, testified that he saw an abrasion or knot on the minister's head after the defendant had surrendered. An hour later, McDuff said, the prisoner complained about an injury to his back and foot.

Deputy Sheriff Steve Wiggins testified that the alleged wound on the defendant's head was shown him. Upon inquiring as to the extent of the injuries, the witness said the minister replied, "I am not hurt to amount to anything."

The deputy testified that the minister said nothing about being struck.

RAIL MEN WON'T QUIT WORK, SAY A. F. L. CHIEFS

Expect Brotherhood Leaders to Accept Compromise Plan of Labor Board

Two hundred chairmen and vice-presidents of the United Brotherhood of Shop Laborers and maintenance of way employes, representing 200,000 men, and officials of the Brotherhood of Railroad Clerks, representing 600,000 workers, began meeting here today to make final decision as to whether to join the strike of the brotherhoods. Part of the six shop crafts also are meeting, and will have a full conference Saturday.

The order of railroad telegraphers and other unions in the American Federation of Labor will begin conferences tomorrow.

The executives of all the Federation unions will meet Sunday, when the decision of each union will be presented and final policy formulated. Whatever action is taken will have united support of all the unions.

According to B. M. Jewell, president of the Railroad Employes Department of the Brotherhoods go back with their strike plans. There is no other way out but for the American Federation of Labor unions to join the strike. The brotherhood chiefs cannot give assurance to the Labor Board that the A. F. of L. unions will defer strike action, the A. F. of L. leaders said today. The board must deal directly with the federation unions themselves.

"The American Federation of Labor never abandons its members to their own end of it," said JePwell.

It is generally conceded in labor circles that a strike by the brotherhoods could not be effective without help from the other railroad unions.

8000 Yardmasters Will Not Join Rail Strike

By Associated Press.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 19.—National headquarters here of the Railroad Yardmasters' Association of America, with a membership of more than 8,000 throughout the country, today sent out notice to its members to remain at work performing their usual duties in the event of a railroad workers' strike.

The notices were sent out following the receipt of telegraphic orders from the president of the organization, J. L. Cone, of New York. Many of the members of this organization also are members of the Big Five brotherhoods, although the yardmasters are not affiliated with any of the large unions or the American Federation of Labor.

No general strike vote was taken, officials holding that the constitution made a strike vote unnecessary. However, approximately 2,500 yardmasters in the vicinity of New York did take a strike vote, which resulted in favor of remaining at work n the event of a general strike.

Roads to Advertise for Men to Succeed Strikers

By Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 19.—All railroads coming into New York will begin advertising tomorrow for men to operate trains in case of a strike.

A member of the general managers' association today said notices would be inserted in morning and afternoon newspapers, offering permanent employment to men employed "to fill such vacancies as may occur."

This official said it had been agreed among the executives to act in concert in advertising.

Stone Charges Railways Flouted Labor Board

By International News Service.

Cleveland, Oct. 19.—"I note, by the papers," said Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Engineers, in a statement given out today, "that the Railway Labor Board is going to assert its authority. It is strange that it should be discovered only when labor is trying to better its conditions, and then, not until then, the United States Railway Labor Board, has full authority.

"In the case of the Missouri & North Arkansas in February, the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic in March, the Pennsylvania, the Erie and numerous other roads, that could be mentioned, the railroad officials have simply flouted the authority of the Labor Board and have told them very plainly and forcibly that they would not recognize them and abide by their decisions, and now at this late date they commence to talk about asserting their authority, when labor is interested.

"If the press reports are to be believed, the administration has issued a statement that it now proposes to find out whether or not the United States Labor Board is a useless public body. Why has not the administration taken this position long ago? The violation on the part of the railroads has repeatedly been brought to the attention of the administration and no action was taken."

Stone's statement was in reply to a telegram, received this morning from A. E. Duncan, of Atlantic City, who declared he represented "four companies with aggregate resources of about $25,000,000 and annual business volume of $75,000,000."

In the telegram Duncan declared that he "strongly supported the railroad executives' proposed plan of further wage reductions, regardless of the outcome of the threatened strike," and added that "an actual nation-wide strike is more to be desired than everlasting fear of such a strike."

"Call your strike," the telegram ended, "and see how quickly railway employes are taught a much needed lesson and what a failure labor unions are making of their affairs."

CAN RUSH VAST LOT OF FLOUR TO BOSTON

100,000 Barrels Could Be Shipped Here by Boat in Week if Strike Comes

The food inspection section of the Boston Health Department completed its survey of the food supply today and by reporting on the supply of flours and cereals on hand and the shipments that may be expected by water transportation in the event of a railroad strike.

It emphasizes the opinion of the flour trade that, in any event, there may be no fear that the people would be obliged to put up with war time rationing of flour or bread.

It discloses the fact the cereal foodstuffs on hand are infested with weevils.

The flour and cereals survey by the health department follows:

On hand October 17, 68,000 barrels; on the way for November 1, 35,000 barrels.

Above together with the amount held by local dealers, bakers and grocers will last five weeks.

It is estimated that in one week, boats with a carrying capacity of 100,000 barrels could be dispatched to Boston from Montreal, that middle of December, when the port of Montreal is closed on account of ice, this flour could be shipped by Grand Trunk Railway to Portland and then transported to Boston by boat and truck; also by Canadian Pacific Railway to St. John, N. B., and thence by boat to Boston.

Also, a supply of flour only limited by the amount of bottoms secured for carrying purposes, adequate to meet all demands, could be laid down in Boston within thirty days from shipment from Tacoma, Wash.

The Shipping Board has at the present time laid up at the Army Base, twenty-five oil burning steamers, which could be pressed into service for transporting foodstuffs of all kinds, including flour.

It is the opinion of the flour trade that there will be no need of resorting to wartime flour or bread. They anticipate no shortage whatever. There is no shortage of wheat, and it is only a question of transporting it by water to Boston, in event of a complete tie-up of railroads.

There is only a small quantity of cereals on hand, owing to the infestation of these foodstuffs with weevils. This situation could be taken care of also by transportation by water. There is no way of estimating the amount of patent cereals, breakfast foods, on hand, owing to the fact that the stock is carried mostly in small stores and chain stores.

There is a week's supply of rye and graham flour on hand.

In order to sell groceries, it has never been our custom to make predictions about possible scarcity of supplies, or advancing prices, or statements of that kind. However, the situation at present appears so unsettled that we unqualifiedly recommend customers to immediately put in a supply of imperishable foodstuffs for the winter. We are fortunate in having a stock of merchandise that has already reached this market at favorable costs.

Another custom that has prevailed with us is never to hold goods for higher prices. We buy them to sell at right prices, and have adopted as our slogan

LEGION DELEGATES TO GO DESPITE STRIKE

The Massachusetts legionaires who will attend the national convention of the American Legion, to begin at Kansas City, on October 31, today went forward with their plans despite the threatened railroad strike. ROXBURY WOMAN IS VICTIM OF CRUEL 'JOKERS'

Five Doctors and a Police Ambulance Sent to Home; Annoyed by Fake Messages

Charging that she is a victim of cruel practical jokers who have sent unneeded doctors and police ambulances to her home, annoyed her with false telephone messages and threatened her with death, Miss K. A. Green of Perrin street, Roxbury, has appeal to the police for relief.

The persecution to which she has been subjected since last Friday has brought her to the verge of nervous collapse.

She can imagine nobody cruel enough to perpetrate the hoax which is making her life miserable, but her complaints are being checked up by the police, and if the author of the so-called "joke" is found he is likely to find the humor of the situation a bit thin.

Miss Green is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis E. Green. Here is her story:

"I never heard of such doings, nor anybody else, I guess. It all started last Friday. Mother and I had just arrived home when the doorbell rang. A man with a professional bag was at the door, and he announced that he was a doctor and had come to examine my mother.

"What's the matter with my mother?' asked I, thinking I should be as good an authority on her health as he was.

5 DOCTORS RUSH AT HOUSE.

"Somebody telephoned me that she was violently insane and should be examined at once,' he said.

"This doctor had hardly explained than the doorbell rang again, and another doctor was there, on the same errand. While they were conferring with my mother and me, the bell rang a third time. It was a woman doctor, also summoned in a hurry, by telephone to inquire into my mother's sanity. That was all that happened Friday.

"Yesterday I received a message at my place of business that if I wished to see my mother I had better go to 24 Alpine S. I called mother up at our home.

"Is everything all right?' I asked, and of course received two more doctors had called on the insane proposition.

PISTOL WARNING.

"That ended the performance for that day. Then Monday I received my last message.

"'Are you the owner of a pistol shot Tuesday night,' said the voice, a woman's over the telephone. That was all. In the meantime, I am a little curious, I wait. For mystification is what we all feel—my father and mother and I, most of all. We cannot understand who can be doing this very silly thing.

"We cannot understand how anyone has so much time on their hands, little did I think that intelligence was to act in this way. But the police are investigating, and also the telephone company. We have hopes that the exceedingly foolish persons will be caught. Court action follows — if these persons are found."

SPRINGFIELD SOCIETY LEADER SUES HUSBAND WHOM SHE SHOT

WRIT FOR $50,000 ASKED

Springfield, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Laura S. Linell, society leader, club woman, and wife of Herbert F. Linell, wealthy manufacturer of spark plugs and other automobile accessories, has made a fresh move in her struggle for divorce, which began last July when a quarrel with her husband ended by a shot from her revolver which lodged in his right leg.

Through her attorneys Mrs. Linall has asked the court for an attachment of $50,000 on her husband's property in connection with her suit for divorce.

Springfield society was shocked last July when Mrs. Linell openly admitted she had shot Linell during a mysterious altercation over a suit case. The wound was not serious.

Inquiry showed he was packing the suit case preparatory to leaving the house, following a series of quarrels with Mrs. Linell that had dragged on for more than a month. He admitted he had not taken a meal with her for that time and that they had not exchanged three words until the night of the shooting.

He preferred charges of assault with a deadly weapon against his wife and, after trial, she was sentenced to one month in the House of Correction, but appealed. The case is still pending.

At her trial in the district court she declared: "The trouble was that Mr. Linell insisted upon being the boss. He would come home from his business in the most dreadful rages, throw things about, call me names such as 'mut' and 'stupid.'" Then the next day the rage would have passed off and he would try to make up by calling me 'duckie.'"

Linell declared that after shooting him his wife called him a coward and dared him to leave the room.

The Linell home at No. 19 Florence Gardens, this city, is a handsome residence. Both Mr. and Mrs. Linell have been married before. Linell was a widower with two children, a son and daughter. Mrs. Linell was divorced when she married Linell three years and a half ago.

Brussels, Oct. 19. (By the Associated Press).—The three Socialist ministers in the Belgian cabinet resigned today as a result of the crisis precipitated through the resignation, announced last night, of M. Devese, Minister of National Defence.

The trouble in the cabinet had its inception Sunday, when M. Vandervelde, it was charged, attended a gathering in Louviere where a banner bearing the emblem of a hammer and sickle breaking his rifle was unfurled. M. Devese resigned as a protest against the presence of M. Anseele at this meeting.

SLAYER OF GIRL CHILD SHOOTS POLICEMAN

Officers Say Negro Admits He Killed His Boy's 9-Year-Old Playmate

By International News Service.

Vineland, N. J., Oct. 19.—Louis Lively, colored, sought by police on a charge of murdering Matilda Russo, nine years old, in Moorestown, N. J., was captured here today after a revolver fight, in which he shot Patrolman Asa Wilson three times. It was believed the patrolman's wounds would be fatal.

Lively was taken to Bridgeton and lodged in jail to protect him against indignant friends of the murdered child's family.

Matilda Russo disappeared June 4, and six days later her body was found buried beneath the floor of Lively's home. Lively had disappeared.

Police said Lively confessed having murdered the girl, saying: "I killed her and don't deny it. How quick you kill me. I've got it coming to me. Go ahead."

Patrolman Wilson received three shots from the revolver, which Lively drew when Wilson recognized him.

In his confession the police say Lively said:

"I did not mean to kill Matilda. She was a playmate of Robert, my seven-year-old son. Sometimes she came to see Robert. On the afternoon of June 4 she came into my house. Snowball was out. She and Robert played around and then she threw things around. She smashed a dish.

"I told her to stop, but she would not obey me. Then I grew angry. I told her if she did not behave herself I would punish her. I picked up a piece of wood and threw it at her. It struck her on the head and she fell to the floor.

"Blood flowed from a gash on her forehead. I got water and washed off the blood. She lay very still and I thought she was unconscious. After I waited fifteen minutes I became frightened. I decided to hide her body."

BRIGHTON POLICEMAN MAY FACE NEW CHARGES

That additional charges may be preferred against Ewen S. Cameron, a Brighton patrolman arrested at Boston station, was indicated today when his case on the charge of breaking and entering the store of F. G. Spaulding, No. 844 Washington street, came up on a continuance. At the request of his counsel, Robert Driscoll Judge Connelly granted a continuance to October 31. Articles found in Cameron's locker are said to correspond with goods taken in the Spaulding robbery, which the police are now investigating.

7 NURSES MADE ILL BY POISON SENT IN FUDGE

Girl Who Got Cyanide in Mail Claimed as Fiancee by Rival Brothers

By International News Service.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Physicians were fighting today to save the lives of seven nurses of the West End Hospital, who were made critically ill by eating home-made candy impregnated with cyanide of potassium, which was received by one of the young women through the mail.

The candy was received by Miss Rosenfeld, a student nurse. It was sent anonymously. Miss Rosenfeld herself partook of it and gave some to Misses Therese Ihle, Grace Breakstone, Alma Dornfeld, Helen Leslie, Anna Ruhle and Daisy Casey, who chanced to be with her in the reception room of the hospital when the candy was received.

Analysis of the candy showed, according to chemists, that the box contained enough poison to have killed scores of persons.

Several men who are known to have been acquaintances of Miss Rosenfeld are under surveillance by the police. Several have been questioned. Among these are William Zimmerman and Benjamin, brothers and reputed successful rivals for the affections of the nurse.

According to the story told by the Zimmerman brothers and their plater, Mrs. Clara Kraus, Miss Rosenfeld had received the attention of both of them and each claimed her as his fiancee. Neither would admit any knowledge of the poisoned candy.

An attendant at the hospital, who reported a man had endeavored to reach Miss Rosenfeld by telephone Monday night and who declared he believed he could name the man who sent the candy, is to be questioned.

WEST END GIRL GONE 5 WEEKS IS FOUND

Theresa Ferranda, eighteen-year-old girl who disappeared from her home at No. 14 Irving street, West End, five weeks ago, is back at home today and will be arraigned in the Municipal Court on a charge of being a runaway.

She was found late last night by Special Officers Campbell and Mettig of the Joy Street Station, in a flat occupied by friends of the girl, on Wire street, Jamaica Plain, where she said she had been living ever since left home.

When Campbell entered the apartment, the girl started weeping and declared she would "never go home" for twenty years than go back home."

After spending some time in the City Jail, she changed her mind, and agreed to go back home with her father, if he would bail her out.

This was done, and she accompanied her parents from the lockup with smiles breaking through her tears.

According to the story told to Campbell, she found life at home unendurable and decided to run away to Haverhill and marry a young man she knew there, who had been courting her for months.

She got to Haverhill without trouble, although she had little money, she says, and met her sweetheart. After talking things over, she changed her mind and left the man in Haverhill and went to the Wise street flat.

Harmony Finds in "Joe" Pelletier Personification of Good Humor

But Smiling Eyes and Laughing Lips Mask the Fighting Man

By HENRY HARMONY

A rotund, smiling-eyed man rose from behind a big desk in the office of the District Attorney of Suffolk County and greeted me as I entered. He was Joseph C. Pelletier.

Here, thought I, is the personification of good humor. That was the first impression and it remained with me during most of the time I spent there.

Only once was it shaken. Then there came a gleam into the smiling eyes and a grimness to the lips that laughed, and I caught a hint—just a bare hint—of the fighting man who lies under the surface of Pelletier, descendant of French fathers and Irish mothers.

Joe Pelletier belongs to the race that said, "They shall not pass."

HIS EYE IS MERRY.

His grandfather came from La Touraine, the Garden of France; his father was born in Boston, and Pelletier retains their love for the soil and their love for humor.

His many battles, civil and political, have left their mark upon him, deep clefts in cheek and chin, but the blue eye is as open and merry as that of a boy, albeit the lid is heavy, giving a false impression at times of stolidity.

He is a lover of nature, and a reader of books, is Pelletier. He speaks easily, entertainingly on a vast range of subjects, and always with the effect of having carefully studied them all.

His ambition—one of them, for he has several—is to visit Spain.

"I want to see the land of the hidalgos," he confessed to me. "But," he added with a frown quickly, "it will be a long time before I get there, I'm afraid."

AND HE'S SYMPATHETIC.

He wants more time in the open spaces, the country, woods and fields, although the fight in the fighting heart is held by his native city of Boston.

No man ever looked less like the typical prosecutor than does Pelletier.

His whole personality tells the other story—the tale of sympathy with the shortcomings of those with whom he has to deal and punish.

To me as I sat there sketching him and listening to his talk he seemed like a man more ready to help than to bane," a man anxious to give "the minor devil a chance," as he himself says.

And the last impression I got as I said goodby was that the "It will be a long time before I get there, I'm afraid."

STILLMAN CASE MAY BE ENDED OUT OF COURT

By Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 19.—Postponement of a hearing in the proceedings instituted by James A. Stillman, seeking a divorce and impugning the paternity of baby Guy Stillman, today led the reports that litigation might be settled out of court or prolonged for several years because of inheritances involved.

At White Plains on Friday, Justice Morschauser is scheduled to hear arguments on a motion by John E. Mack, guardian for Guy Stillman, to include in the litigation all the descendants of the late James Stillman, father of the plaintiff in the divorce suit.

REPORTS CONFLICT.

If the motion should be granted, Charles Chauncey Stillman and Ernest G. Stillman, brothers of James A. Stillman; their sisters, Mrs. Percy A. and Mrs. William G. Rockefeller, and all their children would be made parties.

Guardians would have to be appointed for all the minor children because the will of James Stillman, in opposing of a $37,000,000 estate, left trust funds for his grandchildren.

One report is that aversion to further publicity on the part of James A. Stillman's brothers and sisters will intensify efforts for a settlement of the matter out of court. On the other hand, it is reported, all the help of James Stillman are united in contending Guy Stillman has no legal status under his grandfather's will.

STRONG LITIGATION SEEN.

As indicating the possibility of protracted litigation, an affidavit filed by Mr. Mack says: "The deponent is informed and believes that the brothers and sisters of the plaintiff (James A. Stillman) have sided with him in the charges made against the defendants in this action (Mrs. James A. Stillman and son Guy)."

The affidavit says a victory for Guy in the paternity suit now pending "will only redouble efforts on the part of the plaintiff to prevent the defendant from participating in the trust funds."

MUST GET MORE SCHOOLS, SAYS HARDING

"So long as I find that the proportion of public revenue properly devoted to education is increasing, I desire to be counted among those in public life ready and anxious to struggle with the problem of raising the necessary revenues.

"I wish it were possible to drive home to the whole American people the conviction of needed concern for our educational necessities. We must have more and better teachers, and to get them a remuneration must be compensated as it deserves. I would lift up a Macedonian call, in behalf of our schools and colleges to men and women who feel the urge to public usefulness. More even than money and endowments, our educational establishment needs the devout, unselfish, sustaining support of people moved by instincts of patriotism and service.

"I am not sure that our young people are living up to that full estimate of an educator's worth. I doubt if there is much of plain living and high thinking in academic shades as there was once, or might well be now. I cannot prescribe the cure, but much of the unrest of the world today is chargeable to our living too rapidly and too extravagantly, and colleges have seen the reflex of it."

At Yorktown today President and Mrs. Harding were guests of honor today at the celebrations marking the 140th anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to the Colonials under Washington and Lafayette.

Mr. Harding's address, the feature of the day's program, was delivered at the foot of the Yorktown monument, erected in 1881. A doctrine of enduring friendship between the United States and Great Britain was pronounced by President Harding. The President declared a sentiment of peaceful relationship between the two great English-speaking nations for all time to come, that either should ever again lift the sword against the other, he said must be "unthinkable."

SHOWERS FOR TONIGHT, SAYS WEATHERMAN

Occasional showers tonight and Thursday, forecast the local weather bureau, is the weatherman's official forecast today. Boston was the warmest place in New England today at 8 o'clock, with a temperature of 54. The lowest reach of the mercury was 60 at 3 o'clock this morning. The rest of the country is also unseasonably warm, except in the Rocky Mountains and Northwest.

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 19.—"I have not resigned. I have no intention of resigning." This was the statement made by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon to the International News Service today when asked about reports that he is contemplating getting out of the Harding Cabinet. "I cannot stop rumors," said the secretary. "I wish I could."

ABDUCTED GIRL ABANDONED IN WOODS

Brother Unable to Recognize Helena Anderson After Ordeal of 8 Days

In this chapter is written "Finis" to the eight-day tragedy of Helena Anderson, Jamaica Plain, the Little Girl Who Trusted Strange Young Men.

Yesterday's instalment dealt with the abduction of the girl October 1 by four young men in, or near, Hunnewell square, her detention in a shack in Stoughton; her sale into loathsome slavery; the decision of "Nell" and the men to get rid of her.

They did get rid of her. Eight days after she had been lured into an automobile, kidnaped, outraged and sold, she was thrown out of the shack in Stoughton woods and forced to shift for herself. To appreciate her plight, one must appreciate her physical and mental condition.

Roams Through Woods in Daze From Drugging

Her mind was still disordered by the drug administered to her. Her clothing was torn and stained. Her hair was disordered. Her stockings were down. She was weak from maltreatment and malnutrition. She was afraid to go home. She was afraid to stay in the woods. She was afraid to go back to the shack.

Remember, she was only fifteen years old.

Her childish world in ruins about her, she stumbled blindly through the woods, away from the scene of her suffering, into the bright sunlight of a pleasant Sunday when people in their best were returning from church or preparing to help mother with the Sunday dinner.

Luckily, her weary feet took her in the direction of the O'Donnell cottage and safety. They took her in and Mrs. O'Donnell gave her a hot bath and food—food which she ate in famished haste. They combed her hair and gradually the veil of horror lifted from her mind and she recognized her picture in a Sunday paper and admitted her identity.

Brother Did Not Know Tragic Little Figure

O'Donnell called the child's mother and then the police. The police came, but she could tell them little. She was taken home.

When she was finally claimed by her brother, Oscar, there was an affecting reunion.

At first the brother did not recognize the bedraggled, tragic little figure as the light-hearted girl who left his home one week and one day before.

Finally he said, "Well, Helena, you didn't come back to curl the babies' hair," and the commonplace complaint seemed to awaken his emotion and recall to him what the scene before him meant. He broke down and, wrapping the broken-hearted girl in his arms, cried like a child. But Helena didn't cry.

It was hours later, in the blessed peace of the Anderson household, the gentle, ministering hands about her and love enfolding her like a sheltering cloak, that she was granted the relief of tears.

Her Story Will Be That of Many Others

Helena's eight-day tragedy is done. Her "woe days" are over. She is young and life is awesome in the green blossoms of fifteen Summers. And the comforting arms of her family are around her.

She is slowly recovering from the effects of her ordeal and is slowly burying the memory of it. She is rounding to health and reconciliation with life, which has used her so roughly, "and she so young."

As Burns once mourned.

But the story she told John O'Donnell and his wife in Jamaica Plain would probably be told over and over again.

Innocent girls will continue to accept rides from strange young men. Sleek-jowled men in high-powered cars, with smiles and ready tongues, will continue to wait at the curbs along Boston's thoroughfares.

Helena Anderson's tragedy might have been averted. She was rescued by kindly people; she is home again.

But her story conjures up a picture of girls who were not so fortunate—a phantom army of girls who pass in review from the slums of the great cities, who march in grim brigades out of the questionable apartment house districts, who come, with wet hair, from the rivers and the waterfronts, where they solved their problems—the Little Girls Who Trusted Strange Young Men and never did go home.

PLANS TO HELP IDLE GIVEN BY LLOYD GEORGE

Britain to Aid More Former Service Men to Settle in Dominions

London, Oct. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The situation in England as regards trade and unemployment is worse than at any time since the end of the Napoleonic wars, declared Prime Minister Lloyd George in the House of Commons today.

At present, he said, there are 1,750,000 persons unemployed, and added that the greatest unemployment, to the extent of 17 per cent., was in the metal trades.

He declared that the causes for this situation could all be summed up in one word—war.

He said the government proposed to ask Parliament for an appropriation of another $300,000 to enable ex-service men to emigrate to the Dominions, where, he said, 60,000 already had settled with government assistance.

Turning to the question of trade, Lloyd George said there were undoubtedly signs of revival in some of the most important industries of England, but that also there were very important industries which were not showing signs of revival. He said it was true trade was beginning to move, but that a man would have to be very sanguine who could predict a return to normal conditions at an early date.

He declared it was obvious neither exporter nor importer could build upon "an acrobatic basis of exchange."

It was proposed, he said, to raise the guarantee to traders from 85 per cent. to 100 per cent. and to fix a maximum for each firm to be determined by an advisory committee.

BRAVAS' CASE TO BE TRIED IN NEW BEDFORD

By Associated Press.

Barnstable, Oct. 19.—The trial of John Dias, Benjamin Gomes and Joseph Andrew, Bravas, charged with attacking Gertrude Hutter of Sandwich Bay after she and her escort, William O. Eldredge, had been held up and robbed two months ago, was transferred to New Bedford today.

Judge Henry T. Lummus of the Superior Court, in granting a petition of the defendants for a change of venue, set November 2 as the date for trial.

Counsel in arguing that it would be difficult to obtain an impartial jury in Barnstable or Plymouth Counties referred to the mob scenes about the jail here and at the town lockup at Wareham after the arrest of the men in August.

A. B. HOUGHTON MAY BE ENVOY TO BERLIN

Washington, Oct. 19.—The designation of an ambassador will be the last step in resuming the relations with Germany. The choice of President Harding has narrowed down to two men, according to reports. They are Colonel Thomas Thompson, of Yonkers, N. Y.; Representative Alanson B. Houghton, of Corning, N. Y., Republicans who have been under consideration, but which are now understood to have been discarded, decided Colonel Harvey, of Massachusetts. Representative Houghton is a millionaire glass manufacturer who is serving his second term in Congress. He is fifty-eight years old and was born in Cambridge, Mass., and received part of his education in Germany.

TRY SULPHOR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Advertisement.

IRISH AFFAIRS TO BE DISCUSSED IN COMMONS

Tuesday Probable Date for Airing of Grievances Among Ulstermen

London, Oct. 19.—Irish affairs will probably be discussed in the House of Commons next Tuesday, through the declared willingness of the government to allot one day to the Irish situation if the House should express a general desire for such a discussion.

Charles Curtis Craig declared in the House yesterday that James Craig, the Ulster Premier, and other Belfast ministers had asked him to press the government to give an opportunity to consider the position of Ulster. He said he wished especially to take up the delay encountered in handing over the administrative departments of the Ulster government to the new Belfast Parliament.

Ulster men and their sympathizers here are concerned over the anomalous position of the northern government, which has as yet not begun to function and is, in fact, merely a "paper government."

The movement to reorganize the Ulster Volunteers at Belfast is said in some Unionist quarters here to have been initiated from below, and in no wise to have been influenced by the Ulster government. It is said the rank and file of the Ulster men are alarmed at the growth of Sinn Fein activities in Ulster and fear that guerrilla warfare may be started on some slight pretext.

ACTOR AND SONG WRITER SUES CHAMPION

Too Much Jack Dempsey in Wife's Career, Declares Al Siegal

New York, Oct. 19.—Did Jack Dempsey, world's champion fistologist, alienate the affections of Bee Palmer, shimmy dancer, $100,000 worth?

The question will be answered in court, for Al Siegal, who, in addition to being Bee's husband, is an actor and a song-writer, has sued the champion for that amount.

Siegal declares he has plenty of evidence of too much Dempsey in his wife's career lately and will tell the public all about it when the proper time comes. He announces that he is "red-hot mad."

Dempsey, through his lawyer, denounces the suit as "the attempt of a pair of vaudeville performers to get some free publicity."

"Dempsey knows Bee Palmer, yes," said Jack Kearns, the pugilist's manager, when interviewed about the suit.

"He knows her as he knows a lot of other stage people. Perhaps he has had dinner with her. I'm not sure. But as for a love affair, it's all hokum."

Miss Palmer is understood to side with Dempsey in his statement that there has been nothing wrong between them.

She left New York, where she had been delighting nightly audiences at the Monmartre cafe and the Cafe de Paris with her exposition of the art of shimmy as it is done by experts.

Dempsey's manager is in Chicago and Dempsey is supposed to be there, as well. Kearns denied that his protege had been served with a summons, although Siegal was equally confident that he had.

TWO CAMBRIDGE YOUTHS TELL VIVID TALE

Two Cambridge youths, William Lackey, seventeen years old, and Jack Brogan, fifteen, students at the Rindge Technical High School, set out to see the world October 1.

Yesterday their travels were brought to an abrupt end when they were picked up by the Watertown police, and unfolded, the police say, one of the strangest tales of adventure and participation in a series of robberies in Vermont and New York that they have ever heard.

The police say the youths confessed to a series of daring burglaries in the railroad station and private residences in East Dorset, Vt., and the postoffice at Shusane, N. Y. After completing a short jail sentencence at the latter place they were extradited to Bennington, Vt., where they were placed in jail after being held for the December sitting of the grand jury.

ONLY PRISONERS.

The boys say they were the only occupants of the "bastile," and the jailer, a kindly old man, so kind in fact that Sunday afternoon he overlooked securely fastening the old-fashioned padlock on the cell door. Lackey pushed his hand through the cell door, pulled out the staple, and both walked down the corridor to the office door of the jail. They kicked open the door panel and were free once again.

In relating the jail coup, Lackey told the police:

"Aw, gee, we didn't want to stay there. It was only a one-horse town!"

The Tale of Two Adventurers properly begins on Saturday, October 1, the day of the Harvard-Holy Cross football game. Lackey secured a 50b selling score cards for the Harvard Crimson. He sold $27 worth and, police say, forgot to turn the money in.

Lackey met his chum, Brogan, in Harvard square after the game. Both were coatless and hatless, but the lure of adventure had an appeal that would not be denied. So both set forth and beat their way to Troy, N. Y., where they were picked up by the police, and later released.

LAND IN VERMONT.

We next find the two in East Dorset, Vt. There, they confessed, they robbed the home of a wealthy Italian, securing $1,000 worth of Italian lire, a $10 gold piece, a revolver, clothing and jewelry. Everything but the clothing and gold piece was thrown away. Italian lire had no charm for them.

The East Dorset railroad station was then broken into and a small amount of money and tickets taken. The tickets were thrown away.

The scene now shifts to Shushane, N. Y., where they asked the postmaster to convert the $40 gold piece into bills. The postmaster became suspicious and summoned a State trooper, who finally caught them in Salem, N. Y. Lackey was sentenced to ten days in jail for carrying a loaded revolver and Brogan held as a juvenile delinquent.

ESCAPE FROM JAIL.

In the meantime the Vermont authorities had issued an appeal broadcast for the two boys. They were extradited to Bennington, Vt.; they broke jail.

The two errant knights finally arrived back in Cambridge and slept in the cellar of Lackey's home. They were off for Watertown before the rooster's cry in the morning and visited a boy chum on Orchard street. The boy's mother became suspicious and notified the police.

TWO MEN HURT WHEN TRUCK RAMS STORE

Edward Lawn, of No. 66 Tremont street, Boston, and Bernard Mannix, No. 238 Main street, Watertown, were pinned beneath their auto truck when it overturned after smashing the front of the Ginter store on Main street, Waltham. Both escaped with abrasions and contusions.

Lawn, who was driving the truck, owned by the Massachusetts Blower Company of Watertown, swerved the heavy machine to avoid striking another auto coming out of Cross street. He lost control and it lumbered across the street, over the sidewalk, and into the store-front. The door was battered down and the plate glass windows smashed.

FEAR MISSING GIRL WAS LURED TO BOSTON

Search for Lost 16-Year-Old Evelyn Brown of Bolton Extends to This City

Bolton, Oct. 19.—Search today for pretty Evelyn Brown, the missing sixteen-year-old daughter of Michael Brown, a farmer, extended to Boston on the theory that she has been lured away by a man and woman, who formerly lived near the Brown farm.

Police Chief Charles Mace declared today that the girl did not drown herself. Following her disappearance Monday afternoon a note was found saying she would throw herself into Welch's Pond, near the farm.

Clothing of the girl, a hat, wrapper and skirt were found on the shore of the pond. Chief Mace gave up the suicide theory after dragging the pond all day without result.

Returning to the farmhouse, he made another search of the girl's room and found a second note from the girl. It was written in a poor, scrawling hand, and was not punctuated. It reads:

"I left by crying because I was a fool anyways in front of yer eyes and to homely for ye. Hope you will never look for me in the pond, if ya do, hope ye will never get me.

"Anyway ya want get me alive because I took my clothes and took them up and am going to tye them round my head and to my feet so I can't save myself if the water's cold, and at the end put a large stone so it will sink good and d—— good for me.

"Ha! Ha! To think that I would drown myself on acct of ye. People will "say I was a d—— fool, but I can't stand it any longer and be sure and tell everybody where I am and don't tell any lies about it, because I have sent letter to some telling that I drowned myself and goodbye."

Coincident with finding of the note, the girl's brother, Edward, told Police Chief Mace that his sister had been receiving letters from a man and a woman. The man formerly worked in the woods near the Brown farm and disappeared recently.

The girl, Edware said, was friendly with the stranger. At the same time, a woman believed to be from Worcester, was living on a neighboring farm. She was friendly with the girl. Belief is entertained that the girl may have been lured to Boston by the man and woman.

WIFE ASKS $1,000,000 IN ALIENATION SUIT

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 19.—Derritt Van Deusen Stevens Woodhouse values the love of her husband, Charles Douglas Woodhouse, at exactly $1,000,000. She has instituted suit for this amount against "hubby's" parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo E. Woodhouse, alleging they have alienated the affections of her husband.

The parents are of the well-known Woodhouse baking family, and said to be the wealthiest people in the city. The young Mrs. Woodhouse alleges the defendants enticed her husband to Florida with them in February of 1919 and refused to allow her to accompany him.

HALTS MOVE TO RAZE DEVENS BUILDINGS

Wainwright Will Recommend That Barracks Be Left at Training Camp

The movement to transfer control of Camp Devens to the Quartermaster-General's Department and tear down barracks and other buildings has been halted, according to officers of the First Army Corps Area.

The plan was to "salvage" the camp, so that in future National Guard or other troops using the cantonment would be sheltered in tents instead of barracks. Major-General Clarence R. Edwards did not favor the plan, wanting the camp under his control, and has recently been over the ground with Assistant Secretary of War J. Mayhew Wainwright. As a result of that conference, Mr. Wainwright will recommend to the War Department that the proposed change be stopped.

The move was watched with much interest all over the country, for if Devens had been removed from the control of the First Army Corps Area and dismantled similar action would have followed at other cantonments.

RYAN SWEARS HE WAS WARNED BY M'CARTHY

Ex-Dry Agent Accused in Bribe Case Says Chief Feared "Frame-Up"

Daniel J. Ryan, former prohibition enforcement agent at Worcester, on trial before Judge Morton in Federal court, charged with asking and receiving bribes to influence his decision in liquor cases, took the stand when the trial was resumed today, and declared that former Enforcement Officer William J. McCarthy had warned him against the possibility of a "frame-up."

"He also told me to beware of Abraham Rabinovitz, and, if possible, to get him good," testified the witness.

Rabinovitz was one of the men mentioned in the indictment against Ryan, and at the opening of the trial testified that he had paid, through a third person, $700 to Ryan.

Ryan also testified that he had resigned his office orally on October 2 or 4, 1920, and that he had sent in a letter of formal resignation two weeks later.

This testimony was given in connection with the claim made by the defence that, at the time mentioned in two of the counts against Ryan, he was not in office. The date stated in these counts was given as Oct. 22.

William H. Garland, attorney for Ryan, introduced in evidence a copy of indictments against Lewis Kuplin and Lewis Krinsman, charging them with transporting sixty gallons of liquor. These men are two of those who were alleged to have paid bribes to Ryan to settle their cases "without trouble."

Clark of Framingham. Attorney F. Manley Ives told the commission that the company proposes to sell the stock at $130 a share. Attorney Clark said the stock is now sold in the market at $150 a share and to permit the new issue to drop to $130 would give the new owners a dividend at the rate of 9¾ per cent.

COMMUNISM IS LONG WAY OFF, SAYS LENINE

Years of Work Necessary to Pass From Capitalism to Soviet Goal

Moscow, Oct. 19 (By the Associated Press)—Premier Lenine, who has just returned from a vacation, reviewed Russia's communistic efforts today in a long article published in Pravda, a Soviet newspaper.

"The October revolution," writes Premier Lenine, "has overthrown feudalism and barbaric capitalism, which were impediments to Russian culture. After four years we are sure we are right.

"We have eliminated religious ignorance and also the shame of inequality between man and woman. We also have given freedom to Russian nationalities for the establishment of autonomous governments.

"The Soviet regime is the maximum of democracy for peasants and workers. We have given the world a new type of democracy, a proletarian dictatorship. We are not forgetting the many mistakes we have made and still are making. The most difficult of our tasks has been the rebuilding of our economic structure, but we are going ahead.

"We had hoped, by raising the people's enthusiasm, to overcome the economic difficulties, but now the realities of life have shown us that that was not enough. Long years of work are necessary to pass from capitalism into socialism, and finally into communism."

BIG JAP NAVAL GROWTH GOES FORWARD

Dates for Many Launchings of Great Sea Fighters Are Near at Hand

Tokio, Sept. 16 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—While the question of armament limitation is being prominently discussed, the plan for an eight-sight imperial fleet is making steady progress, according to the Chigai Shogyo, which says several warships are about to be launched.

The first of the new vessels, which will be completed September 25, will be the Warabi. This will be followed the next day by the special warship Tsurumi, of 10,000 tons.

During October the second class destroyer Sumire, the light cruiser Isuzu and the gunboat Nakow will be launched.

The seaplane mother ship Hosho, 519 feet in length, 55 feet in width with a draft of 22.3 feet and a gross displacement of 8,500 tons, will take the water October 24.

On November 17 the Kaga, 39,900 tons, the most advanced type of battleship, will be launched.

Some seventeen other warships, now under construction, will be launched during the current year. These include the battleship Mutsu, light cruisers Oi and Nagara, three first class destroyers, a like number of second class destroyers and ten submarines.

The charges included parking on the wrong side of the street, parking beside fire hydrants, parking within twenty feet of a corner and having no certificate of registration.

Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement.

BERGDOLL CASE PAPERS STOLEN, BOX RECOVERED

Representative Johnson to Seek Thief Through Clew of Finger Prints

By Associated Press.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The box, containing Bergdoll investigation and private papers, stolen from the office of Representative Johnson of Kentucky Monday night, was found early today on the fifth floor of the House office building, broken open and with important documents missing.

After a conference with Speaker Gillett, who stated he proposed to go to the bottom of the matter, Mr. Johnson called on the Washington police to obtain finger prints of all office building police and workmen. He said he wanted these for comparison with finger prints found on the window pane of the office which the thieves cut away to gain entrance.

WILL WED HERO SHE MET IN HOSPITAL

California Girl and Sergt. Dickerman of Somerville to Be United Tonight

A World War romance will culminate in a wedding this evening at St. Catherine's Church, Spring Hill, Somerville, when Miss Marion J. Schaefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Schaefer of Visalia, Cal., will become the bride of Sergeant John A. Dickerman, who served with Headquarters Company of the 104th Infantry overseas. The Rev. James J. O'Brien, pastor of the church, will officiate.

Lieutenant Chester Hobbs will be best man and Miss Isabella Macchi, president of Women's Auxiliary of Somerville Post 10, American Legion, will be the bridesmaid. A reception will follow at the home of Sergeant Dickerman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dickerman, at No. 339 Highland avenue, Somerville.

MET IN HOSPITAL.

The couple became acquainted two years ago, when Sergeant Dickerman was a patient in the Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., where he was recovering from 45 wounds received in action in the World War.

Miss Schaefer, during the war, was a yeoman (F), assigned to clerical duty in the offices of the Navy Department at Washington. During her spare time she visited the hospital and took "goodies" to the soldier lads. It was in this way she met the groom-to-be, who was convalescent from wounds received during his year's service overseas.

While Sergeant Dickerman was in command of a detail of the 104th Infantry, in a front line trench at Apremont, near Toul, France, he received 45 wounds inflicted by fragments of a high explosive fired from a German trench mortar.

NEAR DEATH FOR DAYS.

For days he hovered between life and death in a field hospital, and for two years he was a hospital patient. Before the war he was a member of old Company M, 5th Infantry, M. N. G., of Somerville, with which he served at the Mexican border.

He is a member of George Dilboy Post, No. 523, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Somerville Post, No. 19, American Legion; Somerville Lodge of Elks and other local organizations.

HARVARD MAN KILLED IN SUBWAY ACCIDENT

An investigation is under way to determine why the door flew open between stations. Barron was president of the Harvard Lampoon and captain of the soccer team while in college.

VELVET—which all Paris is using at all hours—makes its final appearance of the day in a wrap that combines black and white velvet in a unique overlapping design, and is luxuriously and becomingly collared in sable. Its wide sleeves are of black velvet cuffed with white, and the wrap is lined with a striking black and gold brocaded tissue.

A GOWN that is a drapery rather than a fitting of fabric, along exquisitely graceful lines, places all confidence in the regal beauty of red purple velvet. The slender silhouette and markedly irregular hemline are in deference to the Winter mode.

MOSES PLEADS FOR TAX ON SALES

Declares Capital Has Gone on Strike and Opposes "Soak the Rich" Slogan

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Adoption of the sales tax plan proposed by Senator Smoot, as a substitute for both the pending tax bill and the majority compromise proposal which is to replace it, was urged on the Senate today by Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, in a speech in which he attacked what he termed the "vicious principle of graduated taxation" as a "modern legislative adaptation of the communistic doctrine of Karl Marx."

Moses declared that the tax legislation proposed "is plainly drawn under the inspiration of the inspiring slogan, 'soak the rich.'" He described the group of Republican Senators who brought about the tax compromise as the "Ken-Cap-Klan," with pointed reference to Senators Kenyon, Republican, of Iowa, and Capper, Republican, of Kansas, as the "imperial wizards" of the "agricultural bloc."

"I hold no brief for the rich," Moses continued, "neither I nor any of my kin have stood within their circle but the rich have already begun to learn much from buffeting. Capital has gone on strike. It is said that whatever tax law we enact at the request of the 'agricultural bloc' will be only a temporary measure.

"It may be that this statement will prove true in a manner which some of the little wish, for I am convinced that the dominant party, although swept into power less than a year ago by a majority of 7,000,000, can not hope again to ride the flood of popular approval if we continue according to the fragments of a taxation system which even those who sponsored it three years ago now declare to be outworn and unsuitable, and under which the enterprise of the country must remain paralyzed and stifled."

OBREGON IS LASHED IN FIERY EDITORIAL

Mexico City, Oct. 19.—President Obregon's administration was subjected to scathing criticism today in an editorial printed by the newspaper El Universal and signed by its editor, Felix F. Palavicini. The journal, which has been a consistent supporter of President Obregon since his inauguration, declares Congress is incompetent and that there is little hope that anything good may come from it. The cabinet is also vigorously criticised.

FIRST FILM BY STROMBERG IS SUCCESS

Initial Production of "The Foolish Age," Shown at Park, Has Marked Features

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

THIS column yesterday was so much given up to relating the impressions of "Experience" at the Park Theatre that there was no opportunity to speak of the companion picture on the bill, "The Foolish Age," which deserves mention. This film is the initial production of the new corporation headed by Hunt Stromberg and he has indeed done himself proud.

Stromberg was formerly a publicity agent with the Thomas H. Ince forces, was advanced to the head of the publicity department, and from there rose in the writing field until he decided to make his own pictures. Accordingly he wrote a story, chose Doris May as a star, picked an adequate supporting cast and started in. "The Foolish Age" is the result and Mr. Stromberg is to be congratulated.

The question is, is "the foolish age"—that of around twenty—so foolish? Margie is so impressed by the speech made to her class on graduation concerning the future ahead of them that she makes immediate plans to start a "crusade of cheer" instead of marrying the nice, young man picked for her by her father.

DORIS MAY

INVOLVES CITY "TOUGHS."

This "crusade of cheer" involves all the "toughs" in the city who become her devoted followers through cheer and cheerlessness. Eventually the "nice, young man" decides to make Margie jealous by starting a "cheer crusade" of his own; his field, though, is limited to chorus girls. His plan works and Margie rushes him off to a minister.

Doris May does some of her best work as Margie. She gets into the spirit of the thing more than she has seemed to of late. The fans have questioned what happened when the co-starring team of Doris May and Douglas McLean broke up. McLean has gone on starring alone, and not very effectively, while Miss May has been appearing in featured roles. She is now being given her chance and is grasping it advantageously.

"Bull" Montana is thoroughly enjoyable as the comedy "tough." He seems to be taking himself and his art less seriously than formerly, consequently getting much more out of it. Hal Cooley does his best with the rather trying role of the "nice, young man."

The story is amusing and keeps up the action and interest from the first reel to the last. The direction is clear and decisive, while the photography and lighting round out a good film.

AT THE MODERN AND BEACON.

THOMAS MEIGHAN is the feature attraction at the Modern and Beacon Theatres this week in the screen version of the Booth Tarkington story, "The Conquest of Canaan." This film has little to recommend it but the star, the work of Doris Kenyon and the sub-titles.

The main trouble with the film is that it doesn't ring true. Meighan makes such a likeable Joe Loudon that it is inconceivable that anyone, even Judge Pike, shouldn't instinctively like him. The crowd doesn't resemble the cast-iron and drab appearance Tarkington attributes to his Indiana towns, and the action doesn't get under way soon enough or keep up fast enough.

The sub-titles, however, very nearly make up for it. They explain a great deal with unusual lightness and no unnecessary words. The direction, by R. William Neill, is very good, while the work of Doris Kenyon as Ariel is convincing.

The companion picture on this bill is an English-made film, "Dangerous Lies," made by Paul Powell of the Famous Players-Lasky British Company. Here we have a typical English picture. The story is by E. Phillips Oppenheim, therefore entertaining.

DAVID POWELL HAS ROLE.

David Powell, long a favorite of American fans, is seen as Sir Henry Vane, a book collector who is in love with Joan Farrell, youngest daughter of a rector who had died financially ruined. In order to save the situation for herself and her sister, Olive, at her father's death, Joan had married Leonard Pearce, but learning directly after the ceremony that he was the one who had ruined her father, left him. The announcement of his death left her free to marry Vane, but the report was untrue and Pearce bobs up to mix matters up. Several things happen before affairs are straightened out.

Oppenheim has, naturally enough, given us a splendid story, but Paul Powell has not directed it to such good advantage. The scenes are choppy, and the continuity is mixed up in several instances. The lighting, too, fails to come up to our standard, though the scenes in and about the rectory were well taken.

Mary Glynn, one of England's most popular actresses, plays the role of Joan. She is quite one of the loveliest girls we have seen on the screen in some time. David Powell does satisfying work as Sir Henry, though he is not called upon to do much.

D'ARTAGNAN BEING GIVEN SWORD BY FATHER

SCENE FROM "THREE MUSKETEERS"

SUPREME COURT HEARS LEGION COMPLAINT

Southboro Commander Seeks to Have Alleged Censure Vote Wiped Out

The full bench of the Supreme Court heard arguments on the bill in equity brought by Joseph B. Choate of Southboro, commander of Leo L. Bagley Post No. 181, against Edward L. Logan, department commander, and the other officers and executive committee of the department of Massachusetts of the American Legion for an injunction to rescind and expunge an alleged vote of censure of the complainant entered by the defendants on the records of the department and sent to be read at the different posts.

The censure vote was the result of a written communication of Mr. Choate to the Boston Herald, published March 30, 1920, attacking Mr. Logan, the department commander.

Henry F. Hurlburt argued the case for Mr. Choate and Sherman L. Whipple and A. M. Beals argued for the respondents. Mr. Hurlburt contended that while the department had a right to remove a member after a proper hearing was given him, but that it had no right of censure. He contended Mr. Choate had a right to comment as he chose on Legion affairs.

Mr. Whipple and Mr. Beals argued that Mr. Choate was entitled to no relief in equity because he had not exhausted his other avenues, especially those afforded within the Legion, that the Legion had the right to counsel him, that he had been summoned to explain his letter and had refused to appear before the executive committee and had thus been given an opportunity to be heard.

CLASSIC TOUCH GIVEN 'THREE MUSKETEERS'

Parental Blessing, in Its Philosophy, Harks Back to "Hamlet"

There is one touching scene in the Douglas Fairbanks' version of "The Three Musketeers," now playing twice daily at the Selwyn Theatre, that in its poetic tone and its philosophy harks back to Shakespeare's "Hamlet" and the advice of Polonius to his son, Laertes.

And the effect of this contrast is heightened by the fact that the character of d'Artagnan's father, the impoverished nobleman of Tarbes, strikingly resembles in person the traditional Polonius of the classic drama.

Handing his son the ancient family sword, with which, alone, d'Artagnan is expected to carve out his fortune in the great world of Paris, his father reminds him: "Remember, my son, that your ancient nobility gives you the right to be best in France."

He continues in true Gascon strain: "You are brave. First, because you are a Gascon, and second, because you are my son. You have thews of iron and wrists of steel; fight upon all occasions. Fight all the more since duels are forbidden, for that requires double courage." And his final exordium is almost a paraphrase of what Polonius says: "My blessing season this in thee."

Armed with much advice and blessed with such an inheritance, it is small wonder that d'Artagnan, riding into the outside world on his mangy, yellow horse, is ready to front all comers; to draw his father's sword in every cause he fancies to be just. It is that which makes this picture so brilliantly adventurous and full of interest.

A resolution calling on Congress to investigate the workings and organization of the Ku Klux Klan was adopted at a meeting in the Twelfth Baptist Church of the National Equal Rights League. Rev. D. F. Klugh of the People's Baptist Church declared that the Klan aims to reduce the negro to slavery. He cited many instances of oppression he said had been practiced by Klansmen.

2 COTTAGES AT NORTH READING BURNED

Police on Trail of Firebug Suspect in Vicinity of Martin's Pond

Two cottages were destroyed and the entire camping section of Martin's Pond, North Reading, was threatened early today in a fire which the police believe was of incendiary origin.

A man seen skulking about the neighborhood a few minutes before flames burst forth is being sought.

The fire started in the cottage of George Carroll of Boston, which was unoccupied. It spread quickly to the cottage of J. L. Staples of Dorchester, and flying sparks endangered other buildings.

The damage was about $1000.

ACK BAY GIRL N 4-STORY DIVE NEAR DEATH

s Sutoris Not Expected to lecover From Leap Out of Newbury Street House

Ethel Sutoris, pretty music student, ughter of a family prominent in Italy, before the Czar's fall, and r a "stranger in a strange land," lying at the City Hospital. hysicians despair of the life of the girl, who jumped from the fourth story window of her lodging house at No. 564 Newbury street, Back Bay, early Monday morning, clad in black silk bloomers and a shimmering black chemise.

The girl, described as beautiful, with vivid blonde hair, deep blue eyes and a skin as soft and pink as a child's, absolved two male friends from all suspicion in connection with her act, before she lapsed into unconsciousness.

The police then released David Lythgoe, her musical instructor, at whose home she lived, and Raymond Rickidi, a musical student, who had been held on suspicion.

Captain Ford Sutoris, the girl's father, is constantly at his daughter's bedside. A fleeting gleam of recognition in the blue eyes, and the daughter lapsed into unconsciousness, unable to speak to her heartbroken father.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

"Lest-We-Forget" Committee Plans Two-Day Sale

THAT the "lest-we-forget" committee of the Army and Navy Club, Park square, is not "forgetting" is quite apparent by the various events which the club is busily preparing to give in the near future.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the committee will hold a salvage sale at the Army and Navy clubhouse at No. 10 Park square, with the capable Mrs. George Lee of Beverly Farms as chairman. The sale, which takes place at 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., is given to help carry on the work conducted by the Community Service among disabled ex-soldiers in Boston hospitals.

The organization frequently gives entertainments for these soldiers, and, of course, money is needed for this purpose, so the recently founded "lest-we-forget" committee has set itself the task of raising the necessary funds to carry on this work. Mrs. Lars Anderson, I recall, is largely responsible for the founding of this very helpful body of women.

Working with Mrs. George Lee for the salvage sale are Mrs. James J. Cabot of Bay State road, Mrs. Theodore Burgess of Dedham, Mrs. John Balch, Miss Elizabeth Leland of Brookline, Miss Eugenia Gardiner, Mrs. George Wheelwright, Jr., and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, wife of the American minister to Sweden.

Mention of Mrs. James J. Cabot (Catherine Rush) recalls her fashionable wedding two years ago last May in St. Paul's Cathedral when she became the daughter-in-law of the Godfrey L. Cabots, who have recently sailed for abroad. She is the daughter of ex-Commander Rush, who was commandant of the navy yard here during the war, and who, I hear, since his retirement, is now living in Hawaii with Mrs. Rush. It is only natural that their daughter should be interested in helping to carry on the work for the "boys."

To Mrs. Wheelwright, Jr., has been allotted the task of procuring salesgirls for next week's affair, and I am told that a number of Vincent Club members will stand behind the counters on Tuesday and Wednesday. This is sure to lend a decided attraction to the sale, for the very mention of this exclusive organization seems to have a magical charm upon the majority of its hearers.

The committee asks that donations of athletic gods, embroidery, brocades and bric-a-brac be sent to the Army and Navy Clubhouse on Park square. Considering the worthiness of the cause, it is hoped that the contributions from the public will be many and generous.

Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris is now settled at No. 286 Beacon street and I hear that she plans to make her home in this city. Following the announcement made in the Summer that the Morris' had purchased "Eagle Head" at Manchester-by-the-Sea on the North Shore, the estate of the late Mrs. James McMillan, this news does not come as a singular surprise.

I remember that Mr. Morris, the United States minister to Sweden, several years ago had the novel experience of having caught a steamship two days after it had sailed. When Mr. Morris arrived at the dock one November day two years ago, he found that the liner Stockholm had already begun its course over the briny deep two days before, bound for Sweden. But there seems to be a great deal of truth in the old saying, "Where there's a will there's a way," and Mr. Morris, who was determined to arrive in Sweden aboard the Stockholm, communicated with the State Department. The diplomat was then informed that a torpedo boat destroyer would await him at Boston and convey him to the liner—which it did.

On the executive committee of the "Lest-we-Forgets" I note the name of Mrs. Edwin S. Webster of Chestnut Hill. Yes, you are quite right, she is the same Mrs. Webster who has been doing such splendid work for the Simmons College endowment fund drive. I am not surprised at Mrs. Webster's ability to do so much work, but one cannot help but wonder where she finds the time to do so many good deeds.

Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Davis and Mr. and Mrs. F. Murray Forbes, all of Boston, number among the recent arrivals at the Red Lion Inn at Stockbridge.

Mrs. Robert Winthrop of No. 10 Walnut street and Lenox, will be one of the exhibitors at the first flower and vegetable exhibitions in Lenox in four years, which will be held tomorrow and Friday under the auspices of the Lenox Horticultural Society at the Town Hall. Mrs. Ray T. Baker will also exhibit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond of Washington, who have a magnificent estate in Gloucester, have arrived in Yokohama on their trip around the world. They will remain in the Orient until early Spring.

LOWELL ELECTS OLD STYLE OF GOVERNMENT

Lowell, Oct. 19.—The commission form of government, in use here for the past twelve years, has been repudiated by the voters at a special election, with the result that the city goes back to the old style city government, with a mayor at the head of the administration. The chief protest against the commission system, under which power and responsibility in city affairs were vested in the hands of five commissioners, lay in the huge increase in the tax rate that has occurred here. Out of a total of 16,427 votes cast, a majority of 631 in favor of a change to the old system was recorded.

SPEED PUBLIC WORK, ARTHUR WOODS URGES

Unemployment Relief Is Problem for Everyone, He Tells Albany Conference

By International News Service

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 19.—Warning that individual effort in every municipality and hamlet in the country alone can bring real solution of unemployment was given at a State-wide conference of officials and business men here today by Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of a sub-committee of the National Unemployment Conference.

Two means of finding the answer to the jobless problem were advanced by Colonel Woods:

1—General "sprucing up" by everyone who has work to be done.

2—Immediate prosecution of public work.

"The cure for unemployment," said Colonel Woods, "is work. The way to get rid of unemployment is to provide employment. We must not lose sight of this fact, yet we must be alive to the needs of the hundreds of thousands of men throughout the country with whom the question is not merely how they can get work, but also how they can live and keep their families alive until that longed-for job appears."

COLUMBIA SHOULD TEST REARRANGED LINEUP AT DARTMOUTH

By CHARLES E. PARKER

The echoing apparatus of the New Hampshire hills may need a thorough inspection and, possibly, strengthening before Saturday.

On that day it will be called upon to repeat the Columbia football yell with three "Moszczenskis" on the end, and while the echoing instrument might struggle through the S's, Z's and C's of one "Moszczenski" in fair condition, three "Moszczenskis" in close succession may wreck the works completely.

Moszczenski is the bright and particular star of the Columbia football eleven, which, with Dartmouth as its opponent, engages in the first game of the proposed annual Dartmouth-Cornell-Pennsylvania-Columbia gridiron series, and Moszczenski needs but repeat, at Hanover, that which he has been accomplishing each Saturday this Fall to earn many Columbia cheers.

The inspection of the echoing apparatus, if it is done, will have to be accomplished by some public-spirited citizen of the Granite State or some none-athletic Dartmouth student, for the Dartmouth football coaches and players will be much too busy to tackle the job.

Things have not been going as smoothly as many expected at Hanover. The team seemed to be progressing favorably prior to last Saturday, but in its game against Tennessee faults that were believed to have been corrected cropped out in clusters, and what should have been a walk-away victory for the Green proved anything but such.

What with the loss of seven of the eleven regulars, and the rather elastic ruling made by the football rules committee on "shift" plays, and the reorganization of the Dartmouth coaching staff, that the Dartmouth team should proceed through its season without encountering some trouble was natural. Spur after the Green's exhibition in the second half of the game with Middlebury, and throughout its contest with the Cadet-conquering New Hampshire State team, few anticipated the rather woeful demonstration offered by the Tennessee game.

Poor passing by the centre, failure of the guards to properly time and execute the shift plays, fumbling by the backs, weird generalship by the quarterback and lack of drive on the part of the team as a whole—all fundamental faults—constituted the list of errors, and made the team appear anything but the capable organization many had expected. And as Dartmouth tackles Columbia this week, and Cornell, Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Georgia in succeeding contests, faults of the foregoing character should have long since been eliminated.

It may have been that the Green struck one of those slumps not unusual to promising football eleven, and that it succeeded in making all its mistakes and errors in one game, or it may have been that the eleven was acting up for the benefit of the Cornell, Penn, Pennsylvania and Syracuse scouts who occupied choice seats in the stands.

But from the action of the Dartmouth coaches in rearranging the lineup this week it would seem that neither was the case, but rather that the "right" combination was yet to be assembled.

Whether these changes will accomplish the desired results will not be known until the game is played. The moving of "Swede" Swenson from a guard position to centre will give the team a heavier but less active pivot than was the case with Seavey at that post. Whether the former's passing will show an improvement in that branch of centre play is now uncertain, for Swenson lost out to Seavey in the early season battle for the job because his short passes were not as accurately timed or so cleanly delivered.

Many who, on the basis of Princeton's defeat by the Navy, have jumped to the conclusion the Tigers are no longer a factor in Eastern football, are likely to experience a shock before the season has ended.

The Navy defeat, according to those intimate with Tiger conditions, may prove the very tonic necessary to bring forth all the potential power of a truly remarkable collection of football stars.

One of the tasks imposed upon the Princeton coaches, and one which they found difficult to accomplish, was that of reducing what is veraciously known as the "swelled head."

Because Princeton escaped defeat last year, Princeton players are said to have freely admitted their football omnipotence. Attempts to deflate the team play are said to have been met with assertions from the players that they played their own style and could not be successful if they attempted to conform to any set system of play. Captain Keck's stunt of leaving his position unguarded because he believed himself a wonderful diagnostician of opposing plays is well known by those who watched his work last season and illustrates the point most clearly.

Keck has the appearance of a "world-beater" when he does successfully forecast the enemy attack and race through and tackle the runner for losses, but a wise quarterback, knowing that he does so, is presented with a remarkable chance to "cross him up." The Navy generals did this, and did it most successfully.

Three times, on fourth downs, Dr. Keck's rare intuition told him the Navy would punt, and he raced through to block the kick, but a Navy back, hidden behind Keck's opponent, was surreptitiously handed the ball and passed through the hole Keck had vacated for gains of many yards and three first downs.

TECH SWIMMERS HAVE THREE RACE MEETS

Will Have Contests With Amherst, Wesleyan and Yale in "Y" Tank

The Technology swimming team has been finally granted permission by the Boston Y. M. C. A. to use the tank for its three home meets this Winter. These will be held with Amherst, Wesleyan, and Yale on January 14, February 7 and February 28, respectively.

The "Y" refused at first to grant the use of its tank for either practice or meets by Tech, as it was feared it would interrupt the swimming periods of the regular "Y" members. Manager E. H. Miller has received the privilege of the tank for meets, but the "Y" is still balking on practice hours. Until this permission is given the squad will practice in the Cambridge "Y" tank at Central square.

All three meets will be close as both Amherst and Wesleyan will have stronger squads than last year, and the Tech mermen will find it difficult to land first place in either meet. When Yale comes Tech will attempt to outpoint last season's Intercollegiate champions.

The freshmen call for candidates for assistant manager of the Tech swimming team is being rapidly answered. They were put to work on the freshman schedule, as this is a strong one. Andover, Exeter, Worcester, Huntington and Brookline will probably be met by the freshmen as in other years. Two new teams, Amherst freshmen and Mosses Brown of Providence, will be added to the schedule.

F COMPANY TEAM OPENS ITS SEASON THIS WEEK

The F Company basketball team, winner of the 101st Infantry championship last year, opens its basketball season, at the Cambridge Armory this week.

The squad has been strengthened by the addition of three new men, all of whom have been in semi-professional basketball in the past. They have a few open dates and are desirous of meeting fast aggregations, especially those in military circles.

The team is being ably captained by Ted Sullivan, former St. Mary's star, and expects to beat its record of last year. Teams desiring games are requested to communicate with R. L. Bedard, No. 24 Elm street, Cambridge, telephone 5485-M.

B. C. TEAM IN TRAINING FOR DETROIT

Coach Cavanaugh Has Maroon and Gold Football Squad at Practice Today

There is no rest for the weary. The Boston College team, that returned last night, will begin today to prepare for the invasion of Detroit University at Braves Field on Saturday. As the team was pretty well used up in the game against Tufts a day or two at least would be in order. Unfortunately, the time is too short and the game Saturday too big to think of anything but hard work in preparation for the battle.

Detroit University comes to Boston with high hopes of returning victorious. The Detroiters gain the name game against Boston College with a team averaging 178 pounds. This would not make them such a pretty eyen one, but the coach will have ready to throw against the Maroon and Gold line a team much heavier than this should his lighter team fail to achieve his hopes.

Detroit's backs of two fine tackles, Captain Ellis and Gus Sonnenberg. Ellis weighs a little over a hundred pounds and was mentioned as tackle on last season's All-America team. Sonnenberg, the other tackle, weighs 185 pounds, but is a good defensive player and excellent punter. He played last year with Dartmouth.

Against the Detroit tackles, Boston College will have Lunch, Keahane and Paton, new to the squad. But both have advanced rapidly under Cavanaugh. Keahane is a rangy lad, whose aggressive tactics from the very beginning have merited him a regular position. A good defensive player always, he has improved his offensive caution, and in the game against Providence he broke through the line and spoiled many plays. Ray Paton, rated as one of the best prep school tackles, showed in the three games that Boston College has played that he deserved his reputation. He and Keahane should prove a good match for the Detroit giants.

Tom Kenney, a Springfield boy, will play centre for the Westerners. Kenney has played on the Detroit eleven for four seasons and is considered a finished player. Kenney may find that he has still a few things to learn about centreing when he faces Bill Doyle. This is Doyle's first year with Cavanaugh but he has shown a style of playing that reminds one of Hanphy. He played an especially brilliant game against Baylor last Saturday.

The rest of the Detroit line is not considered overly strong. The ends are of average ability while the guards are new. The Boston College line was very weak at the start of the season, but has shown improvement in each game. It took against a heavier line at Baylor, and the Detroit backs are likely to find that ripping the B. C. line is somewhat of a difficult task.

Big Reception Given B. C. Squad on Return

Three thousand wildly cheering students, alumni and followers of Boston College, met the victorious returning "Maroon and Gold" eleven in the South Station and gave the tamers of the Baylor "Bears" the greatest reception ever recorded a Boston College football team.

For half an hour before the team arrived, the station re-echoed with cheers for the team. Hundreds of commuters augmented the crowd and joined in the tribute.

As the team alighted it was greeted with a thunder of applause. When Darling, the star backfield player, who had his ankle broken in the first few minutes of the game, was carried from the train on a stretcher, the crowd again broke loose with deafening cheers for the Minnesota boy.

Forming outside the station, the crowd, led by the Boston College band, began a triumphant march up Summer street. Students carried torches which blazed the way for the autos bearing the victorious team. Half way up Summer street, the students started a snake dance and, cheering and singing, marched through Washington, Boylston and Tremont streets up to the Parkman band stand.

At the band stand a crowd of 4,000 joined in the noisy tribute to the team. Most of the players, tired after their long trip, left for home immediately after the parade disbanded.

Coach Frank Cavanaugh did not come to Boston with the team, but left the boys at Worcester. His home is in that city. Graduate Manager Frank Reynolds accompanied the team as far as the Common.

In spite of the fact that the team was pretty well shaken up during the game, most of the players appeared in excellent shape on their return home. Donellan and Keahane are suffering from slight back injuries that will not keep them out of the game more than two or three days.

George Kelley, who played a wonderful game at the guard position Saturday, said that the Boston College team was given a fine reception by the students of the Catholic University at Dallas.

Says There Are So Many New Laws Being Made That a Man Has to Go to Jail to Keep Straight

Every day we read of some new law being made. We've got so many laws now that it's impossible to break more than half of them.

You've got to break three laws in order to obey one.

If we got arrested for everything we did, the patrol wagons would be running up and down the streets like taxicabs.

Half of our public officials are in the Capitol making laws and the other half are outside breaking them.

There are more things that you can't do than there are things that you can do.

To be on the safe side, always find out what you can do, and then go ahead and don't do it.

The jails are full of law-breakers. There are supposed to be two men in each cell and it was all right until some of the inmates started to take in boarders.

One guy liked it so well he sent for his family.

There are so many laws that a man has to go to jail to keep straight.

If you come near being run over and through the mill, can help out for the former Tufts star considerably.

The second team found that Penn State plays could not them nothin The best thing they did was to run aside from holding the varsity a few short goal line several times.

Cities are getting to be fine places. They fine you for this and they fine you for that.

The fines are seldom less than ten dollars and you can't walk two blocks before you've run up a bill of fifty or sixty bucks.

There's hardly a man in town who hasn't opened an account with the city.

Some say paid a judge seventy-five dollars in fines and then stood around waiting for coupons.

You've got to hand it to our lawmakers. They're making such simple laws that anybody can break them.

Even a young body can go out in the morning and by evening be owes the city eighty dollars.

One bird got fined fifty bucks and he asked the judge for time to pay it and the judge gave him ninety days.

The law-makers are behind the citizens, and the citizens are behind the bars.

The Big Days in Football at Hand

Football gets going on high this week and some gridiron history is in the making.

All the big college squads are starting on their real hard games and from now until the season closes the great outdoor sport of the dear old public will be the annual wrestling match for tickets.

The most important of the many star contests Saturday is that between Harvard and Penn State.

The invaders come here with all good intentions of carrying off the Crimson scalp and Coach Fisher's boys will have to show better football than that displayed against Holy Cross and Georgia if they hope to stave off defeat.

Hugo Bezdek has a wonderful team of husky veterans, together with many seasoned and speedy players.

It looks like a tough day for Harvard.

At New Haven the Yale Bulldog will also have a chance to show his fighting qualities against the well-known West Point army mule.

Boston College, crippled after its somewhat mysterious pilgrimage to Texas, has a hard game with Detroit at Braves Field and the boys from the Heights will have to start playing the very first period.

There are several other important games on Saturday's schedule, including Georgetown-Holy Cross, Princeton-Chicago, Syracuse-Pittsburgh and Dartmouth-Columbia.

ELI SCRUBS USE WEST POINT FORMATIONS

Head Coach Tad Jones Put Squad Through Hardest Scrimmage of Season

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 19.—Head Coach Tad Jones has ordered the Yale Varsity to be ready this afternoon for the most strenuous scrimmage practices of the week for the West Point game. It is likely that two teams will face each other for fully an hour in a practice bout. Dr. Jones' scrubs will use West Point formations to test the varsity defense. The regulars will attempt straight, old-fashioned football in the hope of getting this style of play, against the Army team.

It is hoped they will not be obliged to use their more complicated formations which have been tested in secret, but have not been tried against any opponent. Yale desires to send West Point down to defeat without showing the hand of a strategic trump cards which are being held in reserve for Princeton and Harvard.

Yale's eleven has been definitely reorganized as follows for the West Point game: Left end, Blair; left tackle, Into; left guard, Cruikshank; centre, Landis; right guard, Guernsey; right tackle, Diller; right end, Deaver; quarterback, Hackett; left halfback, Aldrich; right halfback, Mallory; fullback, Jordan.

This combination was used against the scrubs yesterday and registered two touchdowns. It was ordered out again today and it is doubtful whether a first string lineup will be gridironed again this week in scrimmage.

Al Into had recovered from a slight indisposition and will remain at left tackle. The coaches this morning felt that Into would be played only a short time, being reserved for Saturday's game.

Head Coach Tad Jones said that it is extremely doubtful if Al Norris will play centre, if Harry Cross will be used at guard, or O'Hearn at quarterback, for more than a few minutes Saturday. The coaches do not desire to play them regularly until they have fully recovered from their recent injuries.

It is also thought that Jack Diller will go back to right end and it is possible that Donald Hidden, the Pittsburg boy who replaced Into at left tackle last Saturday, may succeed Diller.

Harvard Captains Play

Here's a boost for football at Harvard! The five major sport captains are football players and four of them are now in the Stadium practising daily. The three regulars are Kit Kane, the left tackle, who heads the eleven; Fiske Brown, the right guard, who is track leader, and George Owen, right halfback, who is hockey captain. Arthur Conlon, third string quarterback, is the baseball pilot. Lou Mogg retired from football after one season when he was elected captain of the crew.

Junior High School Meet

The junior boys of Arlington, Chelsea, Revere, Somerville and Waltham high schools will engage in a track meet in Arlington, Saturday.

Dr. William T. McCarty, director of athletics in the Arlington schools, will have charge.

HARVARD VARSITY TAKES BRACE IN PRACTICE FOR PENN GAME

While the Harvard rush line offence continues wobbly, the varsity managed to score three touchdowns and a field goal against the second team in fifty minutes' play. The big Crimson linemen forced the scrub down the field at a great gait. Once it was held when it reached the ten-yard line. The ball was once taken away on downs, twice when Churchill missed field goals, and the fourth time Spicy Pfaffman drop kicked a neat score from the twenty-eight-yard line.

Jenkins starred in running back kicks. Once he got forty-five yards before he was brought down by Pratt of the scrubs. Another time he made twenty and later intercepted a forward pass. Jenkins, Roullard and Howe scored touchdowns, the last named on a pass from Pfaffman.

Churchill did some pretty running, and one of his brake brought the varsity to the 10-yard line, where Pfaffman kicked his goal. Jack Conlon gained twenty yards while serving as number three back instead of at quarterback.

Fitz has a knee which bothers him, and may have to give way to Jack Crocker at left end Saturday. Kernan, one of the centres, is also laid up. Riller, a member of the second team, broke his nose after a hard tackle.

The varsity lineup was: Macomber and Janin, ends; Kane and Ladd, substituting for Tierney, tackles; Brown and Hubbard, substituting for Grew, guards; Bradford, centre; Buell, quarterback; Owen, Roullard and Jenkins, backs.

Leo Leary will be end coach for a week in place of Ernie Soucy who is on a vacation. Leary was varsity mentor in 1916, and before that time was an assistant to Coach Haughton.

Huntington Hardwick also visited. His position on Charlie Brickley's team was somewhat similar to that of Roscoe Pitts. Both men are natural halfbacks with plenty of ability and are good punters.

Haughton and Hardwick in his senior year to end from halfback just as Fisher is trying out Pitts as Fisher is trying out Pitts six eleven one of its hardest battles there. So Hardwick, who has gone of the season.

PENN STATE PRACTICES FOR AN HOUR IN TWILIGHT

State College, Pa., Oct. 19.—Hugo Bezdek drove his Penn State squad through one of the hardest practice sessions of the season yesterday afternoon and last evening, scrimmaging the varsity against the third and fourth elevens for almost three hours before he sent them in to supper.

The big ace lights that have been erected about the practice field cast in mighty handy as did also the whitepainted ball, for darkness had settled over the field an hour before the Nittany coach was satisfied for the day.

Little improvement has been noted in the condition of Captain Snell who is in the college infirmary with an abscess in his throat, and there is hardly a possibility that he will be able to take the trip, let alone get into the game against Harvard on Saturday. His loss will be most severe for he has been one of Penn State's leading scorers so far this year.

Hess has been showing quite a bit of development at the fullback post and the former backfield star may rise to the emergency in fine shape.

Penn State's chances are not over bright but the players are full of determination and will give the Crimson a battle.

WEST ROXBURY SPRINGS A SURPRISE ON BRIGHTON

By FRED C. LANE

West Roxbury High sprung the surprise of the season at Braves Field yesterday, defeating Brighton High, 13 to 0, in easy fashion. The West Roxbury youths outplayed the Brighton squad in all departments of the game. Heal pep and snap in working their plays upset the former champions of the District School League.

John Lane playing left halfback for West Roxbury, was the outstanding star of the afternoon. His punting and running off tackle plays made him a marked man for the Brighton outfit. Regardless of this opposition he outmastered his rivals every time and gained much ground.

Brighton elected to kick and it was a wise decision. Lane received the ball on his own 40-yard line and ran to the center of the field before going down. Six men of the Brighton team got their best to bring him down, but his speed made him a winner.

In the second period, on a fake drop-kick Lane went right to the end for twenty yards and Crowley took it over for the second touchdown.

M. Kenny, played well for Brighton as did Donovan and Scott.

The summary:

WEST ROXBURY		BRIGHTON

TRADE MAKES TOUCHDOWN AND BEATS SOUTH BOSTON

South Boston put up a stubborn fight to keep into goal line unsullied, but the advantage in weight of the Trade team caused it to go down to defeat, 7 to 0, yesterday.

South Boston made a few yards on forward passes but the hard tackling of Fertile and Jacobson was too much for the peninsular back field.

Baird played a fine game at quarterback for South Boston, running the team in shipshape manner and making some excellent tackles. One saved a touchdown.

Williams, the weighty back for Trade, broke through the line and had passed the secondary defense and had a clear field in front of him. Baird with a burst of speed raced after Williams and downed him on the five-yard line.

Trade put over its touchdown after ramming the South Boston line till it weakened. Then the combination of Garrett, Williams, Flynn and Vaccarelli got working, resulting in Williams down the field on line plays. Williams was the best ground-gainer for Trade.

DARTMOUTH COACHES SAY THEIR SHIFT IS LEGAL

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 19 Rumors of an attempt by Coach "Buck" O'Neil of Columbia, to have the Dartmouth shift declared illegal before the Dartmouth-Columbia game saturday failed to worry the big green coaches. Coach Cannell said yesterday that while such an attempt might be made he saw no reason for worry about it, as every referee who has officiated in Hanover this year has found that the shift complies with the spirit and letter of the law.

Much time has been spent in Hanover this year to develop the shift so that it would comply with the official rules and also with the interpretation which was placed upon that rule at the interpretation meeting in New York early this Fall.

The Dartmouth shift today has a line, in which every man has both feet stationary on the ground, and no sway to his body at the time the ball is passed, and so every official, so far, has ruled.

Cy Gordon and Goldstein were hurt in the scrimmage between the regulars and their team and Team B yesterday. Both men will be kept out of the game for a day or two. The scrimmage marked the dropping of the no-scrimmage policy inaugurated this year. The two teams were sent through a long, hard scrimmage, one of the hardest of the year.

Work is being rushed to get a new team in shape for the Columbia game. Columbia is making every effort to have this its supreme effort of the year. The coaches have their team developed to that it will be at its height Saturday.

A thousand Columbia students are reported to be making preparations to follow their team to Hanover, and one of the biggest football crowds in years here is expected.

O'HARE AT QUARTERBACK FOR BOSTON UNIVERSITY

Several changes were made in the Boston University lineup when the team was out to practice yesterday. O'Hare took Feldman's place as quarterback and Wheeler played at tackle, substituting for Levenson. Washburn, who has been out since the game with Harvard, was back in the lineup, and his return was welcomed as he is a good man to have back.

The rival lightweights, both seeking a match with Champion Sonny Leonard, will finish training here for the bout.

FOOTBALL CAUSES DEATH OF SCHOOLBOY

ACHES AND PAINS—SLOAN'S GETS 'EM!

AVOID the misery of racking pain. Sloan's gets right down to the aching spot and relieves your pain and you wonder why you did not use Sloan's first. Have a bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy and apply when you first feel pain.

Use freely and don't rub, as it penetrates and you will be surprised to find how quickly it eases the pain and sends a feeling of warmth through the aching part.

ARENA PLANS ON BROAD SCALE FOR HOCKEY

General Meeting of Players, Coaches and Managers on November 4

Ice hockey will be conducted this season, at the New Bedford Arena on a broader and more liberal scale than ever attempted in any city in this country. Plans formulated by manager George V. Brown embrace every phase of club, college and school hockey.

Although the tentative plans must be submitted to hockey players, coaches, managers and athletic councils for approval it is expected that a general meeting will be held Friday, November 4, at the B. A. A. at which hockey in all its aspects will be discussed.

Last year was experimental in ice hockey at the Arena. Lessons learned in that hectic season will be applied. The school boys, the smaller colleges and the club players just inferior to the so-called stars will not be overlooked.

The rink will be ready for skating directly after Thanksgiving Day, and the formal opening scheduled for Saturday night, December 5, will include the best skating features that the management can secure in this country.

Initial action of the year in ice hockey will be taken at the annual meeting of the United States Amateur Hockey Association in Philadelphia, October 29 and 30. This city will be well represented at this meeting.

Local plans for hockey competition call for four teams in a local series and it is understood that all four teams will make application for admission into the association.

Interest locally centres in the club situation. As it now stands the B. A. A. Westminsters, Pere Marquette Council, K. of C., and St. Alphonsus Association will be represented. It is reported that Melrose is anxious to enter a team in local competition.

A local league of at least four well-balanced teams would be a boom to hockey. Harvard, M. I. T. and Boston College will figure in college hockey, and there is a good prospect of Boston University and Tufts College joining the college group.

The Interscholastic League series probably will be conducted, as a year ago, with semi-final and final rounds played in the Arena on regular game nights. Manager Brown and Nat Young, director of physical hygiene in the Boston schools, are working on a proposition that will appeal to the players of the Boston High and Latin School.

WEST VIRGINIA CALLS OFF GAME WITH NAVY

TAD'S TIDBITS

SPEAKING OF HORSESHOES AND THINGS

The Giant rooters have had their ha! ha! It was coming to them. Of all the lucky teams in the world the Giants are it. They have won two World's Series championships since they started. The first one they copped way back in 1905 beating the Athletics. In that series Rube Waddell, the Athletic pitcher, went away on a merry mucilage party and didn't show up to pitch. He was one of the greatest left handed hurlers the game ever saw. The Giants never faced him.

Horseshoes? What then?

This year the greatest batsman and also the greatest player of all time, Babe Ruth, is injured. He bats with one hand in three games and is finally unable to play. The Giants won.

Horseshoes? What then?

Let a Yankee fan holler. He has it coming to him.

Suppose the Giants lost Frisch and had to put in some ham to play third base, would there be a belch or wild cheers?

The Giants' fans say the Yanks flopped when Ruth didn't play. True. So would any other team. Ruth was PART of the team. They had [illegible] of any good strength. You know most every one is a lot better with a BIG HITTER BEHIND HIM.

Ruth was walked five times in the few games he played in. He would have walked six more walks had he been able to finish the series. A short one would have won most any of the contests.

Once again for the Horseshoes.

Rawlings hit .323 in the series. During the season he belts .278.

Horseshoes?

The Giants ought to train at Horseshoe Falls next Spring.

BOBBY DYSON SIGNS TO FIGHT O'DONNELL

By JACK CONWAY

Bobby Dyson, back once more under the management of Jack Leonard, will resume fistic operations when he opposes K. O. Joe O'Donnell in the feature bout of eight rounds at the opening of the ice Palace in Philadelphia tomorrow night.

Dyson has signed a contract with Leonard which means that the New Bedford warrior will soon be out front with the best bantamweights in the East. Leonard developed Dyson from a preliminary boxer until he landed him a match with Jimmy Wilde. The low weight for this match weakened Dyson, and as a result the British champion won easily.

In future Dyson will restrict himself to battles with bantamweights and will permit the flyweights to run for Sweeney. At 116-118 pounds Dyson is capable of making a good showing in the fastest of company. But when you compel a bantamweight to roll himself down to flyweight proportions it is another story again.

The matchmakers of three or four of our Boston clubs are on the ropes and breathing hard. It is about as difficult to secure attractive matches as it is for some of our best little blackmail queens to convince the folks back home that they never remain out at night after the curfew sounds.

Apparently some of our noble box fighters have not been tipped off that the war is over and that it is no longer possible to pay a young man triple time for loafing inside of a ring for eight to ten rounds. Maybe after some of the clubs have faded out of the picture and courageous gentlemen who formerly earned tidy incomes by posing as regular fighting men, times will change.

Matchmaker Joe Goode is trying to line up a strong card for the next show of the Arena A. C.

The Commercial A. C. has called off its show booked for Friday night. Very good judgment. Harry Silva was no match for Eddie Shevlin, whom he was booked to meet in the main bout.

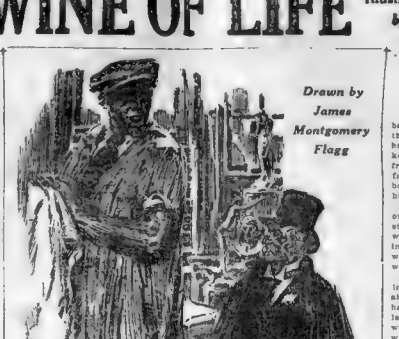
A Stirring Narrative of the Influence of Love on the Lives of a Girl and a Man of the Type That Fills a Big Niche in an Ever Changing Age

The Story of an Ambitious Young Sculptor Who Comes to New York Hoping to Win His Way to Fortune in the Metropolis



Drawn by James Montgomery Flagg

Modrynski Comes at Last to Praise Storrow

THE ACTION SO FAR

Owen Storrow, a young sculptor, coming to New York to perfect himself in his art, meets Torrie Throssel, a strikingly lovely girl studying for the stage under the direction of Herman Krassler, a producer. Storrow saves his cousin, Charlotte Kirkwer, from drowning, and she confesses her love for him. Later he marries Torrie, and on the advice of Chester Hardy gives up sculpture and starts to write a novel of the North Country. Torrie, very angry when Storrow divulges their marriage, quarrels with her husband, then repents and contritely tells him she has given up her stage work and that he is the only thing that counts. But Storrow grows more and more suspicious of Torrie's past and she more and more restless. He finally bursts out and they have a one-man fight in their apartments. He then leaves her and goes to work for an Italian statue maker.

HE studied the newcomer with much concern, and then the cast covered cellar walls, and then the brown-tinted bust of Dante which he still had in his hand. Then he retreated to the living quarters above the stairs and consulted with Maria, his rotund and wren-like wife, who surreptitiously inspected Storrow through a crack in the door and perceived that he was good to look upon and carried no obvious ear-marks of a refugee from justice.

So the matter was decided, then and there. Storrow became one of that little family in Shiner place shadowed by the mottled walls of tenements, submerging himself in that crowded corner of the East Side where even to hear his native tongue was to prove a stranger. There he proceeded to make himself phantasmally at home, entering into the work allowed to him with a preoccupied ferocity which more and more tended to perplex the mild-eyed Angelo.

There, down the narrow canyon of a side-street a-flutter with multi-colored bedding and washings, a joyous and noisy side-street that seemed almost Neapolitan in its color and movement, Storrow saw floating coming to the city. He beheld the curly-girdles emerge and the hook-beer signs appear on the gilt-carved saloon towards the water-front and the hokey-pokey barrows come out like crocuses and swarthy children enraptured with the strains of a lacrimistic thing like grasshoppers on the broken concrete.

He felt the sun shine warm on the smoke-stained bricks, and noticed greens in the carts of the street vendors, and caught a ghostly aroma of eutland pudding and burgeoning on the languid breeze that crept in across the East River.

Playing With Art

And down that echoing canyon, in the paling afternoons he saw the shadows grow purple and the golden mists that hung over the city deepen to a wine-glow like the wine-glow that once hung warm over his native mountains. And if in his heart a great unhappiness lay sealed and coffined, he struggled none the less determinedly to keep the lid tight down on that casket where his lost hopes slept.

It was this which kept him so doggedly and so desperately close to his work. Angelo saw to it that he was well supplied with modeling clay and wax. And the newfound maker of images, freed from all restraints, contemptuous of criticisms, careless of results, played with the lost art

He let his fancy laugh, lightly and cynically, into the ha'penny forms that were demanded of him. He learned quickly enough from Angelo the limitations in form and line imposed upon him, the necessity for that modified pornography which carried its appeal to mild-eyed intelligence. Yet what he modelled was something more than the bilousty whose natural haven was the beer-parlor and the barber-shop wall. If he approached his work with cynical and careless hand he also brought to the artless born of indifference, at end day by day he built up his models until there came into being that small array of figures which brought joy to the heart of Angelo and Maria and were destined later on to run like a nettle-rash across the country.

His first figure, "The Father," was an obvious imitation of Bourguereau, with the Italianic influence too much to the front. But his second figure, "The Diver," caught at first-hand from a naked urchin on the string-piece of an East River wharf-end, had in it the unsuppressed spirit of youth and vitality, made doubly apparent when the inspired Angelo hit on the expedient of dipping the finished cast in a stain of copper-brown.

Then Storrow turned to animals, essaying a figure or two which gave him much personal satisfaction, but eventually confirmed Angelo's prediction that they would never sell, like the nude. So he went back to the nudes, turning them out with a blithe bitterness of heart born of the memory that he was prostituting a gift which had once seemed sacred to him

Indifferent to Business

In the spirit, half of mockery, half of shamelessness, he created that poignant little study known to the world as "The Tired Model," the crouching and lean-ribbed figure, too pensively youthful and human ever to offend by its nakedness, which was later to smile down from half a million bookshelves and plate-rails and whatnots. And Angelo, seeing that the work was good, prepared his molds and mixed his plaster and tinted the finished casts, persuaded that a new era was overtaking his business

This promise of trebled trade seemed in no way to interest Storrow. He worked and lived like a man in a dream. He ate meals of spaghetti and sour wine, with a braised pullet on Sundays. He sat trance-like at a table where half a dozen excited Sicilians argued frenziedly and endlessly as to condiments and Caruso and lemon shipments from Palmero. He ate unknown dishes savory with garlic and smoked rat-tail stogies handed forth by unknown companions.

For a holiday he occasionally went with Angelo and a comrade Neapolitan in an extremely dirty motor-launch down the bay, where they fished for eels and Lafayettes, kicking home sun-burned and tired with the incoming tide. Once, too, he joined his new friends in an excursion to Coney Island, where he moved about with constraint and finally purchased from a dispenser of holiday souvenirs a small basket of woven sweet-grass. From the aromatic fibres of this basket he was able to extract a quick but keen consolation, for the heavy fragrance of sweet-grass never failed to bring him back, at a bound, to the roads and hillsides of his native province.

But all the time, during that outing he watched midway and street-crowd and bathing beaches with appreciation, secretly dreading that some friend from his old world might chance to confront him with startled and accusatory eyes.

That eminently from his old world, in fact, came to him much more abruptly and bewilderingly than he had counted on. He came a week later, in the form of Modrynski, who made his way creakingly and wheezingly down Dolliano's narrow stairway and confronted Storrow at the latter stood at the iron sink washing up after his morning's work.

Saluted Him

"I salute you, sir," said Modrynski with his stained yet half satyric bow And Storrow, without speaking, stood staring at his enemy of other days. It seemed a very long time ago, since they had faced each other

"And I must further inquire," continued Modrynski as he took a parcel wrapped in tissue paper from under his caped coat, "if this happened to be your work?"

Storrow saw the tremulous old fingers tear away the folds of tissue paper, revealing one of Angelo's freshly minted casts of "The Tired Model."

"It is," acknowledged Storrow.

"I thought so," said the other man, moving his head slowly from side to side, for all the world like a Polar bear in a zoo cage. "And I run down the perpetrator of that enormity, sir, has taken three whole days of my time!"

"Then why bother about it?" demanded Storrow, with imperfectly masked antagonism. He was troubled, at the moment, with none too happy memories of earlier comments on his art work.

"Why bother about it?" repeated Modrynski, undisturbed by the other's hostility. "Because behind all its badness, my dear young misanthrope, behind all its misplacing of values, is enough of the breath of life to compel a man who has grown old in the search of beauty to respect its creator." He turned, for the first time, and stared slowly about the crowded and cast-littered chamber. "But what, in the name of God, are you doing in a catacomb like this?"

"I'm living my own life," averred Storrow, meeting Modrynski's sunken and ochre-framed eye still again, and even through the fogs of hostility, he could detect the beauty of that unaging eye, full-colored and deep and limpid in the midst of the yellow and wrinkled face

"You mean burying your life," countered Modrynski, with yet another stare about the room. "And what, in the name of God, is left alive impresses me as not only a calamity but as a crime," he added with slow deliberation, as he seated himself on one of Angelo's cases of plaster images

His Own

"It's at least my own," retorted Storrow, plainly with no wish to prolong the interview. But Modrynski was not to be shaken off

"Not altogether," he meditatively reminded the other man. Then he stood up again. "There's Torrie, you know. And I feel, sir, that you have not been quite fair to her"

It was a full moment before Storrow spoke again.

"I'll be obliged if you'll not discuss my wife," he finally declared.

Again there was a pause of the two men met. It was only the face of the older man that carried any touch of gentleness.

"But I'm afraid we are compelled to discuss her," contended Modrynski, the slight foreign intonation of his voice seeming to give a touch of impersonality to a statement still essentially personal. "And Torrie is a girl very dear to my heart."

"I've had considerable evidence of that," was Storrow's quick and embittered retort

The deep-set eyes gazed unwaveringly out of the faded old face, as meditative and melancholy as an eagle's.

Called It Unique

"I am complimented by your jealousy, my lad, even while I am compelled to acknowledge that it is unjust," Modrynski quietly replied "In two years I shall be seventy. I am an old man. And Life, you must remember, brings its immunities. You are young, and your blood is hot—and for that I envy you. But I who am old have learned to know that no problem is solved by running away from it."

"I've been conscious of no particular problem confronting me," contended the younger man

"But there is a problem. I know that, now, as I see the unhappiness in your face. Women, of course, should be accidents, and only accidents, in the life of the true artist. But that is something we keep failing to remember. We also sometimes fail to remember that it is the woman of beauty and warmth of blood, the woman of keen feeling and quick impulses, who first affects and inflames us. That woman's life must be kept full. Is the rich soil that cannot be fallow or barren. It must be a garden of quiet rapture, or a riot of weeds. And we fail to meet her demands and keep full her life, we must not be surprised if she is driven to seek consolation from other sources"

"What are you driving at?" Storrow's brusk demand.

"I am driving at nothing" Modrynski responded with carefully maintained deliberateness "I am merely attempting to point out to you that at a time like this your place is at your wife's side"

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

ROMANCE OF NEWLY WEDDED LIFE

By Ann Lisle

Copyright, 1921, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

"I WANTED to look at it—even though I knew it would be Greek to me. You understand the sentiment, don't you?"

The smooth blankness of Miss Storrs' face puzzled me. She didn't seem to understand. Instead, she said suddenly, with the air of dismissal:

"You haven't forgotten your father? We've probably nothing further to discuss that he can't hear just as well as not 'Shall I tell Oliver to send him in again?'

"No, I'll go out and join him," I replied, feeling a tiny bit miffed Then, feeling ashamed of being, I added, "I have things to talk over with him, Miss Storrs. If they turn out to have any bearing on my husband's affairs I'll come straight to you with them. Your loyalty and your good judgment are things of which I can't say much—but I appreciate them, and I know you want me to feel free to ask all myself of them."

Listen Husbands! Are your wives slaving in their kitchens because they believe you will eat only home-made bread?

"Of course" she said "As you are, Mrs. Harrison."

Called Farewell

I called back my farewell from the open door, and just as I was about to close it after me I realized that I hadn't told Miss Storrs the very thing I'd come to tell—over my return to the Haidane organization. So I turned back hastily.

But the office was empty and the door to the room beyond was just closing with a finality which seemed to say, "No trespassing."

The outer office was empty when I came out, and young Oliver's reply to my question about the visitor who preceded me showed that Dad Lee hadn't stopped after leaving Miss Storrs' office, but had rushed out in a great hurry. This impelled me to make all possible speed after him. But when I reached his hotel I found that he hadn't been in since early morning. He had, however, telephoned three times to see if there was any word for him and had left word that if any one calling himself Dick West sent a message it was to be noted carefully.

Jeanie in Wait

I went out to the writing room and sat where I could watch the main entrance and office as well. It was important to get in touch with Dad Lee at once, for my desire to face him grew all the stronger at the thought of his own anxiety about Dick West.

While I sat in the writing room waiting for Dad Lee, I went over the possibilities in regard to Dick. He might be in hiding. He might be after Jim. He might be the victim of his own evil wish. A drug coma was one possibility with which to account for his absence from the scenes. Another was that he had fallen victim to the arts of his associates

At half past seven Dad Lee had neither returned nor sent any word to the hotel. So I got up and set off to my own hotel. I was half starved. The fifteen-cent lunch which was all I dared afford out of my waning two dollars, had lacked staying qualities. I had to go to the place where I could sign a check for dinner

I rode back to the hotel and stopped at the office for my key. It didn't occur to me to ask for mail or messages, since I had no idea that any one knew of my present location, but the clerk handed me several telegrams. Glancing down I saw that they were all from Jeanie. There were five of them—and each a demande that I communicate with her at once. As I started toward the telephone booth by the door a familiar figure start up from an easy chair in the lobby and cross toward me. It was Jeanie

I've never seen her face look more set and purposeful.

And They Agreed

Mr. Gasbag stood on a soap-box at the corner of the street. A huge crowd surged around him. Surely his heart should have been glad! But he was dissatisfied

Every attempt he made to speak was interrupted by some member of the audience. At last, stamping his foot in anger, he bellowed at the top of his voice: "Every time I open my mouth a silly fool speaks!"

And the crowd agreed with him entirely.

Better Than Nothing

"Aw, I have such a dreadful cold in my head," said Algy.

"Well," answered his companion, cuttingly, "that is better than nothing."

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Her hair looked as if on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any druggist for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Advertisement.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and simply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and tastes better than most cough syrups.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, hoarse cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm that used to clog the throat and make you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back, or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get inflamed, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To break up these irritating colds, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; then take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

—By Aline Michaelis—

WE need so many keys each day
For gates that still are shut
If we should reach a shining way
And leave our dull old rut. So many paces bright and fair before our sight arise they make us yearn to enter there, if we but knew the signs. So many doors we long to pass that lead to peace and ease, but since we cry: "Alack, alas! we haven't got the key!" that there are keys to every gate in all life's vast domain; without them folks must stand and wait and still their old refrain. But none need ever run amuck and wildly tear his hair, for shining keys like push and pluck will take him anywhere
Some claim that work's a sombre key, unfit for finer souls, but for plain folks like you and me it leads to many goals. How it would brighten up the scene if all these chaps who mope and sit around with dismal mien would use the key of hope! The keys are ours, the keys are ours! We only hold them in our hands; the keys to new and greater powers, the keys to brighter lands. The keys to make our lives complete and open every door to castles built on Easy Street with days of joy galore. It seems a worse than foolish thing to let these bright keys rust, while all the gifts they could bring fall rotting into dust.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get inflamed, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; then take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By R. C. FORBES.

Another probe. This time it is the salaries paid the officers of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The redoubtable John Skelton Williams, former Comptroller of the Currency, who is to bankers what a red rag is to a bull, declares that the salaries paid by this institution are absolutely extravagant. And Congress has decided to reveal the facts.

Mr. Williams presents a list of the largest salaries paid, along with the increases granted from the time the officers were employed. Some of these increases certainly look astounding, especially when it is remembered that the bank was organized only seven years ago.

For example, one man has jumped from $4,000 to $28,000 a year, another from $7,000 to $25,000, another from $4,000 to $22,000, another from $6,500 to $15,000, another from $5,000 to $15,000. The list also contains such jumps as from $1,800 to $12,000 a year, from $2,000 to $12,000, from $2,500 to $12,500 in three cases, and six instances of increases from $1,500 to salaries ranging from $7,500 to $16,000 a year.

Certainly not many non-governmental institutions have boosted salaries at such rates and it may be in the public interest to have the fullest explanation of how these various men have increased their worth so phenomenally.

On the other hand, the three highest salaries paid, according to Mr. Williams, are one of $50,000 and two of $30,000—surely not extravagant remuneration for the men mainly responsible for running so colossal and so tremendously important a financial institution, an institution, indeed, in some respects the largest in the world.

Take the $50,000 salary. It is paid Benjamin Strong, governor of the bank. He started at $30,000, seven years ago. It happen to be familiar with Mr. Strong's banking career, and I venture to say that, had he kept on as he was going in the banking world, he would have been earning at least $50,000 by now.

The $30,000 which he received at the start was probably no more than he was getting as a responsible officer in the Bankers' Trust Company at the time of his appointment. There are financial institutions in New York which have paid their presidents twice $50,000 a year—Frank A. Vanderlip, in fact, for a year from the National City Bank, and doubtless the president of the largest trust company in the city is worth as much.

Pierre Jay, one of the $30,000-a-year men, is the governmental representative in the bank. He started, in 1914, at $16,000 a year. The other $30,000 officer, Deputy Governor H. C. Case, I should say, underpaid rather than overpaid. I have followed Mr. Case's career for many years, and when he decided to go with the Federal Reserve Bank at a starting salary of $20,000 a year he probably incurred a financial sacrifice, as he was then a leading vice-president in the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company.

Governor Strong is away from the bank a great deal, and in his absence Mr. Case takes the responsibility of conducting affairs. As salaries go nowadays, $30,000 certainly does not appear extravagant for such a position.

Let me here relate a pertinent incident:

Mr. Case's predecessor in the Federal Reserve Bank received a very moderate salary. He was a man of unusual breadth and ability. When a very important financial position had to be filled, a committee of leading bankers was appointed to select the ideal man. They finally picked Mr. Tremaine, of the Federal Reserve Bank, and offered him three times the salary he was then receiving. Because of the quasi-public nature of the work he was then doing, however, he felt compelled to refuse the offer.

The public affairs of this country unquestionably would be administered better were the government and government bodies to pay larger salaries. There have been few changes in the salaries paid for government positions during these recent years when the cost of living doubled and when wages in many industries were increased anywhere from 75 per cent. to 150 per cent.

For example, the salary of one of the country's railway employes increased no less than 130 per cent., and the wages of steel workers rose about the same amount. Those who did the pay of anthracite coal miners, in many industrial concerns profit-sharing plans were introduced, and the average receipts of corporation executives sometimes reached very large figures. Most financial institutions increased the salaries paid both clerical forces and officers. But government salaries, as a rule, have stood still.

Henry Ford is on the right track when he comes out and advocates better pay for the judges who sit in our courts. If, Federal, State and even municipal office-holders were better paid, there would be less temptation to indulge in practices designed to swell their bank accounts. Payment of higher salaries, too, would attract competent, aggressive, brainy men, who, having attained success in the business world, hesitate to accept public office because of the financial hard-

RAILS ADVANCE AT MARKET OPENING

Steels Lead a Second Hour Reaction; Trading Is Active on the Upturn

By W. S. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

The New York market had a heavy tone at noon, a majority of issues showing losses, there was a second hour reaction in which steels took the lead. Rails remained steady. Trading was active at the early advance, but grew quiet on the decline. Among the most active stocks were Baldwin, Crucible, Bethlehem B, Lackawanna Steel, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck and Agricultural Chemical. Sales for the day from one to nearly four points. Republic Iron & Steel preferred touched the most. Haskell and Barker showed more than a point gain, and Car and Foundry two. Pittsburg advance, up 3½ from Tuesday's closing price.

Call loans renewed at 4½ per cent, at noon, the opening rate was 5 per cent by noon. Foreign exchange ruled lower, initial quotations being: Demand sterling $3.59 off 1½, French francs .0714, off .0062; belgas .0383, off .0031; Italian lire .0145, marks .0059, unchanged; guilders .3493, up .0071.

GOOD TONE AT OPENING.

The market had a pronounced tone at the opening, railroads advancing at once, as did stocks of all kinds. The price movement was up-and-up for the first hour, but in most instances only fractions were gained. Amongst strongest rails were Delaware & Hudson, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Chesapeake & Ohio and Northern Pacific. They sold from one to nearly two points higher. Pullman, which dropped more than four points on Tuesday, recovered most of its loss. The management of this corporation may they know no reason for the slump. Its stockholders hold their annual meeting today. A Chicago dispatch says the regular dividend will be paid December 15, earning being more than sufficient for the disbursement. Oils were active and ruled a little higher. Steels were quiet but steady. Tobaccos were more in evidence than usual and several attained a higher level. American Sugar was the feature. On account of its class, the common sagging to a new record low, sale in 1921 preferred moved up more than a point.

LESS PEAR OF STRIKE.

There was less fear in financial districts of a railroad strike, now that operators who had sold rails short lost no time in covering. This was the main support given the railway carriers. The absence of liquidation on Monday, the day set for the latest raid, is the subject of considerable comment. About all weak holders seem to have been shaken out. The technical position of the market is unfavorable for a sustained advance of the short account. The borrowing demand for stocks is fair. Prominent asked yesterday for call loans, 5 per cent. and Crucible 1-32. The reelection of Gary is viewed as a sustaining influence. It is made in the face of large government withdrawals from the bank, $20,000,000 was taken Monday, $60,000,000 yesterday and $17,000,000, today. It is stated that the call money was obtained direct from the banks on Tuesday at 3½ per cent. One authority on the Street thinks call money will be a large supply at 3 per cent within ninety days.

Expect Coal Mine Strike

A local financial publication says "There is a growing feeling among coal men that the ending of the present union wage agreement on April 1 next will result in a bitter strike. Miners' wages have not been cut from wartime peaks and they have not accepted the conditions of operators. Wages must be cut if industry is to exist but miners are expected to fight bitterly against any recession."

Smaller Tobacco Crop

The tobacco crop of this country for this year will be 34 per cent. less than the yield for the preceding one. The 1921 crop is estimated at 1,050,664,000 pounds, against 1,504,064,000 pounds raised in 1920.

GALVESTON NOW IS BIGGEST GRAIN PORT

Texas City Rich in Freight Resources and Business Facilities, Spillane Says

By RICHARD SPILLANE.

Galveston, Oct. 19.—Considering its size Galveston is one of the most remarkable cities of the world. In population it has only 46,000 or 45,000, yet over its wharves and piers there passes a tremendous volume of commerce. In the last fiscal year this aggregated $630,883,923 in exports and $226,684,449 in imports, or a total of about $12,000 for every man, woman and child in the city.

Its prosperity has widened greatly. Once it boasted only of being the world's greatest cotton port. It still retains that position, but now it asks consideration as the world's greatest grain port, and it hopes to be the greatest oil port, too.

CITY ON SAND SPIT.

There never was and probably never will be much of a general industrial establishment in Galveston. Physical conditions do not warrant it. The city is on a long, narrow, low Galveston Island—a sand spit two miles off the main land.

Equinoxial storms have done serious damage several times, particularly in 1900, but the protection is practically complete, with the building of a sea wall, are believed to have put it beyond danger of any great loss.

The island is long and narrow. From the north end, and also from Bolivar Point, the government has built jetties five miles out into the Gulf. The latter forms a natural harbor that once impeded shipping and now the deepest draft vessels of the world can enter and leave.

To the north of Galveston is a broad bay, with plenty of deep water, and immediately opposite, but close in Galveston in this bay, is Pelican Island, once a marsh, and now filled to a fair height. On Pelican Island ship repair yards, storage warehouses and other port adjuncts have sprouted in number.

For several miles along the bay front, Galveston is lined with great piers and wharves, grain elevators, coal elevators, many cotton warehouses and refineries, cotton compresses, etc. There is a great amount of mechanical freight handling equipment. Most of the piers and wharves are double decked. In a few ports is freight handled more expensively and economically.

Practically all the switching operations are under the control of the Galveston Wharf Company, which controls nearly all the water frontage except that used by the Southern Pacific Railroad and the government.

BIG COTTON EXPORTS.

There is hardly another port in the world where a vessel can get such quick dispatch as at Galveston. It can in an hour or so of leaving her berth, she can be out in the gulf. This fact, together with the short rail haul from cotton to the great cotton growing area of the southwest, and to the grain belt west of the Mississippi river, contributes to the port that weigh largely in build movements.

Cotton exports depend wholly on the size of the Texas and Oklahoma crops. In a year when the yield is more than 4,000,000 bales, which would mean one quarter of the largest crop ever grown, it is not safe to say. Last year Galveston handled 56,825,000 bushels of grain for export. Texas City, her sub port, included in the calculation. This year that total has been exceeded by 11,000,000 bushels or more.

The decline in ocean traffic has affected Galveston, as it has other ports, but there are signs of improvement. Whether it is due to the cotton movement, or the general shorts, or betterment in other lines is not plain, but a new agitation for shipping schemes are being established and there is a general air of optimism.

General business is good in Galveston. The city has not the great inland trade it commanded in the days when Galveston, principally to Texas cotton crop, but it has a share of it. Also it still has a tremendous banking power in the southwest.

Once the city ranked as seventh in wealth in the United States. It is not so high in the list today, but it has many millionaires. With the distribution of its wealth in the interior, the great supply houses, of which Galveston had many, have declined, eg that now the bulk of the merchandising is for the local territory. Jobbing is practically confined to the city. This had held up well, considering the long and bitter strike. Labor is back on the job now, pending arbitration of the wage question.

As in other centers, labor seems reluctant to accept lower pay, but those who are best informed say it will have to do so. There is a shade of adjustment in Galveston or there will be no work for it to do. Incidentally, the local government is making a farce of the prohibition law.

Railroad Items

Canadian Pacific gross decreased $791,000 in the first week of October, to $3,000,000.

For the week ended October 8 reports by principal railroads to the Car Service Association on tonnage handled from 69 per cent. to 92 per cent. reported.

The Canadian Pacific has placed a contract for 32,000 tons of steel rails, which are ordered so far this year.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Ry. has been authorized to issue $2,000,000 refunding mortgage 6 per cent. bonds and to sell $1,000,000 of its refunding mortgage 6 per cent. bonds as collateral for certain notes maturing October 15 issued by the company.

The Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf Railway has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $1,000,000 of 6 per cent. bonds, to be sold at not less than 90 per cent. of their par value, and the Trinidad-Johnstown, Inc., Hampton, capital $100,000.

WALL ST. GOSSIP

By MONITOR.

STOCKS made a moderate but distinct response to the better turn in the news of the railroad strike situation. Advances as a rule were confined to fractions, but they were general throughout the list.

PRACTICALLY every one of the active standard and low-priced rails showed gains, and the improved sentiment was reflected in a rise in the equipments, oils and quite a number of specialties. There was heavy trading in Mexican Petroleum, and Texas Co. featured an advance of more than two points. Among the domestic oils the leaders in the upturn were Pacific Oil, Texas Company and Texas Pacific Coal and Oil.

WALL Street is pretty thoroughly convinced that the railroad strike threat will not develop into actual conflict, and the uncertainty is largely confined to the fear that the carriers may be forced to make concessions which will "upset" their economic and financial future.

THE Street would prefer to have the issue squarely faced, as it believes that the recent wage reduction of 12 per cent. has been more than offset by the drop in the cost of living, and that so far as the actual purchasing power of services is concerned the employees of the railroads are receiving higher pay than they were a year ago.

WEAK spots in the list were represented by American Agricultural Chemical, American Sugar, both common and preferred, and Pullman Company. Both the sugar shares and Pullman reached new low levels for the year.

WEAKNESS in the commodities including both grain and cotton figured as one of the chief incidents of the day. The decline in wheat undoubtedly has been aggravated by the abolition of trading in "privileges" or "puts" and "calls" as a result of the Capper-Tincher bill, thus causing timid holders to unload their purchases instead of carrying them over night.

AMERICAN Sugar, both common and preferred, broke into new low ground today on selling, which is reported to have originated in Boston and Philadelphia. The commodity situation is even less favorable than had been anticipated at this time. The carry-over in Cuba is understood to be about 1,500,000 tons. The domestic beet crop is compelling sharply with the Cuban product, and the cane crop will come into the market in December. In the trade it is said that there is no indication of an increase in the demand.

IT has been rumored that the American Sugar Refining Company is in the market for new financing. There are reports that the money needed by the company will be supplied only on the condition that the preferred dividend be passed. When the preferred broke under 70 today, color was given to this report.

THE Phila Electric Corporation is reported to be arranging to sell through Harris, Forbes & Co. and the National City Company, both of this city, for quick financing aggregating $7,000,000. No details have been made public but it is understood that part of the issue will be used for refunding outstanding obligations.

IN the last hour of trading, Pullman attracted considerable attention by declining more than four points. The trading represented liquidation from Chicago and was said to be due to the belief that when the directors of the company meet tomorrow, the dividend rate will be reduced.

IT is understood that powerful financial interests, formerly large owners of Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, have been accumulating it again for some months past, and that their holdings are now larger than at any time. In view of this situation there was keen interest in a report that Standard Oil interests have been large buyers of Northern Pacific recently. Under the Ripley plan of consolidation the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul are to be grouped. Others are watching this situation closely.

FROM authoritative sources it is learned that all of the trucks of the Pierce Arrow Company included in the receivership have been sold and that the additional orders are being received in sufficient quantity to change materially the financial outlook of the company. It is this encouraging feature, together with the prospects for both the common and preferred stocks by houses which have not yet interested identified with the company.

MONEY after opening and renewing at 5 per cent. declined to 4 per cent. in the afternoon, following Monday's low rate. There was comparatively little demand for funds, and ample supplies were tendered largely from out-of-town institutions.

DIRECTORS of the Central R. R. of New Jersey met and declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent.

THE same brokers who have been active on the buying side of Coca Cola recently, were busy there again Tuesday. There is no indication of any extended forward movement in the near future. There is no very tangible evidence on which to base the more optimistic sentiment, but in some quarters it is suggested that a larger number of the shipping Board vessels cannot be adapted to merchant purposes, and that new construction designed and built particularly for certain trades is going to provide work for the yards soon.

EASY MONEY HIT GRAIN MARKET, EVANS SAYS

Rapid Wheat Slump Followed Artificial Interest Reduction, Writer Declares

By C. B. EVANS

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The condition of the grain market is a strong confirmation of the recent claim of the Chicago bankers that the liquidation in other parts of the country had not gone far enough when the artificial reduction of the interest rate by the Federal Reserve Board was made.

It was desired that the rates for money should be held by the natural action of the market at points where the farmers would naturally let their wheat go gradually under their debts, and that the grain market should not be little by little if it had to go at all.

The consequence of easier money appears to have been the retention of this wheat in first hands, but when the demand fell off there was a very rapid slump.

As between the high price of Monday for December wheat, and the present price, there is a decline of 10 cents a bushel, while May wheat has fallen since September 16 about 15 cents. This is a big, a startling performance compared with the fluctuations in prices. The farmers are liquidating in a hurry now.

WORLD POSITION IS CAUSE.

It is the world position of economic affairs that has caused this slump. Essentially, the farmer is the man who invested in the devastation of Eastern Europe and the unfortunate situation in Central and Western Europe are his other business man, and will presently be illustrated if the breakdown in German exchange is not checked, people should actually occur.

He, like others, is finding out that what he has been growing on sand heaps.

Then the average city man has a picture of the farmer in Iowa, for example, as having acquired his land for $75 per acre, and he now enters its value in his account books, at $400 per acre.

The development of the country that indeed, in some instances, proved to be a mirage, and the farmer in Iowa, Nebraska, or Kansas, who is in the position of the whole country.

CHILL TO REVIVAL.

Such performances as that of wheat are chilling to those who have been predicting a great revival of business and of a big advance in the number who are looking for something like half a revival.

When half of one per cent. finds something occurs to send them down part of the way. Steel, which is to recruit to the list of improving commodities, has itself backed out a little. The disappearance of the sensational spasmodic on a small scale and the whole iron and steel market is "spotted."

We are hearing all sorts of stories in this city of the trend of prices, but the best is the one that applies to the small end of things. They are engaged in barter on a considerable scale, exchanging corn for coal and other commodities. One hears that in Iowa and Nebraska, a sheep is worth 75 cents.

In the South Water street live chickens are quoted at 20 cents a pound, which means a very low figure for the farmer who raised them. When half of one per cent. South Water street chickens gets on a plate in front of a man in a restaurant, he has to pay $1. It is at least ten times as important commercially as it was in the days before.

Here comes in that important and never solved question of transportation. Tracts of the middle man from the country buyer to the waiter in the labor parade, and the interest on capital involved. All but the minute amount involved in the latter item is labor parade.

We cannot get away from the great difference between a hen on the farm and a chicken on a dinner plate until there is a reduction in the cost of living, including the labor that is the art and the greed, of the profiteer.

The real question is the essence of the proposed railroad strike, but it is no more important there than it is in all our commercial relations. It touches American affairs and American comfort almost every point.

There will be 50 pictures. For every car named correctly the contestant will be credited with 1.8 per cent. One and eight-tenth.

Fifty cars named correctly will mean a credit of 90 per cent.

Then, the Walk Right-Drive Right essays will be considered.

Picture No. 21 in the Name-this-Auto Test must have been selected by the editor for the purpose of giving everybody a holiday. All you do on this occasion is write the name of the well known ——— automobile and go out to the movies. Wouldn't you like a contest with all fifty pictures as "easy" as this?

GIVE THOUGHT TO ESSAY.

A good little boy writes from Worcester to ask if it now is too late to enter the Name-this-Auto Test. Afraid it is, George, unless Mr. David Boland of No. 84 Trumbull street can help. See him before you give up.

From this time on it will be well for contestants to be giving "thought a day" to the Walk Right-Drive Right letter. Ask yourselves this question: "In what way can streets and boulevards be made safer for both pedestrian and driver?"

Write not less than fifty or not more than one hundred words.

But send nothing in before the close of the Test.

TRANSFERS OF POLICE IN EFFECT TOMORROW

Many transfers of policemen from their old stations to other assignments in different quarters of the city are listed in a general order which goes into effect tomorrow. Traffic Patrolman George Carey goes to the Back Bay station. Patrolman George R. Mitchell of the West Roxbury station is sent to the City Hall avenue station.

Patrolman William C. Peterson of the City Point station is transferred to the traffic squad, as is Patrolman Jeremiah Haggerty of the Morton street station. Patrolman Thomas F. Joyce of the Harbor police is transferred to the Roxbury Crossing station, while Patrolman Winfred N. Maxwell of the Athens street station replaces him on the harbor force.

HORSE KICKS NAIL; 14 ANIMALS BURNED

Dudley, Oct. 19.—A horse kicking against a nail is blamed for a fire that destroyed eleven cows and three horses in the barn of the Dempsey farm here and which destroyed $5,000 worth of hay. Neighbors saved the house with a bucket brigade.

"AUTO-TEST" RULES.

Following are the rules which must be observed by those who desire to take part in this unique experiment:

The Boston American's Name-this-Auto competition is a test of knowledge and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Ninety-four awards, with a total value of $1,500, will be paid in cash at the close of the competition.

Participants in the Test will be asked to identify the automobiles thus shown. In addition, they will be asked to submit, at the end of the test, an essay on the subject of "Walk Right—Drive Right," to consist of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred words.

Participation in any other feature of its kind in the Boston American in the past will not bar anybody from entering this one. The only persons barred are employes of the Boston American (and other Hearst publications) and members of their families.

Every participant will be permitted to submit one set of pictures, but each set must contain only one title for each picture. No participant will be entitled to more than one award, and not more than one award will be given to any one family.

It is absolutely necessary that all envelopes or packages containing answers or suggestions be sent fully prepaid at POSTAL LETTER RATES. Mail of this character is classified by the Post Office as first class matter. Right to refuse to consider any sets of answers sent by mail upon which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

STICKS TO POST AS STREET CAR RUNS AWAY

Athol, Oct. 19.—Sticking to his post as his one-man car dashed a quarter of a mile down School street hill, Eugene Hurt, motorman-conductor, in a serious condition today. WHO WANTS 10¢ FOR A $15 Oneida Silver Service

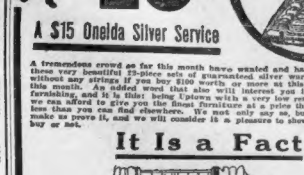
A tremendous crowd so far this month have wanted and have received one of these very beautiful 23-piece sets of guaranteed silverware, and it is going like wildfire at any sittings if you buy $100 worth or more at this big Uptown store this month. As added word that also will interest you in regard to home furnishing, and it is this: being Uptown with a very low rent and low expense we can afford to give you the finest furniture at a price that is tremendously less than you can find elsewhere. We not only say so, but we want you to make us prove it, and we will consider it a pleasure to show you whether you buy or not.

It Is a Fact



6 Pieces Complete $55

That this tremendous Dining Room value we are showing for today made such a sensation amongst the furniture dealers that it has been copied but only in picture. This is a big, beautiful suite, with full size solid oak buffet. The table too is solid oak, and while others offer wood seat chairs we give you four of the very best quality chairs, with genuine leather slip seats. This truly is an extraordinary value, and shows what a tremendous saving you make if you trade at this big Uptown store where the expense of doing business is just one-half. The 1920 price was $135. Our Uptown price, 6 pieces complete, $55.

Some Other October Values

That must further convince you of the tremendous saving on quality furniture you will make if you trade Uptown; and remember, we are a home furnishing store for 45 years in the same location. An added assurance of satisfaction.

$175 Six-Piece Walnut Dining Suite $125
A Comfortable Couch Bed, with Cotton-Filled Mattress $14
$22 Woven Tapestry Rug $15.65
$30 Two-Inch Post Enamel Bed and National Spring $16.75

Mexican Recognition Problem for People of America to Solve

El Paso, Texas, October 17.

To the Editor of the Boston American:

President Obregon of Mexico has given an interview to representatives of the press which contains statements sadly discouraging to those who are anxious to see the most cordial relations developed between the United States and Mexico.

President Obregon says that official representatives of Mexico will not be present at the convention of nations to be held at Washington. This is genuinely distressing to Americans who believe in the policy of "America first" and the cultivation of friendly conditions and relations in America first.

There might be representatives of Armenia, Eurania, China, Korea, Siam, the Congo Free State, Liberia or any kind of nation or pseudo nation in distant Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia at the historic assembly in Washington, but there will be no representative of peace and good will from our important immediate American neighbor and sister Republic of Mexico.

Why? What is the reason that the government of the United States of America does not recognize the present stable government of the Republic of Mexico?

There was ample reason why the United States should not recognize the government of Carranza, which was nothing more than an authorized state of protracted anarchy; but what reason is there why we should not recognize the established and universally supported government of General Obregon, which has almost entirely restored law and order and civilized conditions in Mexico; a government which not only maintains the peaceful and ethical conditions of civilized society, but offers the friendship and encouragement to citizens of the United States in Mexico which have so long been denied them?

What is the United States asking of the Mexican government in return for recognition which the Mexican government is unwilling to grant? The principle of our demand should be supremely simple. We should ask nothing of Mexico that we would not freely and fully grant to Mexico if that country made the request of us. And Mexico for its part should withhold no right from our citizens in Mexico which it would not wish withheld from its citizens in the United States.

This is the plain principle of the Golden Rule applied to international relations, and it applies as aptly to politics and diplomacy as it does to religion, morality, business activity and all phases of human society.

The situation between the United States and Mexico needs light. It needs the light of publicity. It is time that some of the fine phrases propounded by Mr. Wilson and never practiced by him were actually put into political operation by the present more practical and apparently more genuine American administration of President Harding.

What has become of the plan to abolish secret diplomacy for which as one object our idealistic American youth sacrificed their lives? What has become of the open covenants openly arrived at which was so inspiring a watchword in our self-sacrificing crusade for democracy?

Let us make our negotiations with Mexico a matter of democratic diplomacy. Let us take our citizens whose wisdom we so highly extol and so constantly ignore into the confidence of government. Let us make our public policy public. Is our government negotiating with Mexico for the rights of our whole citizenship or for the special advantage of certain financial interests?

Friends of the administration naturally suppose that the government is considering only the public interest, but when Lamont, spokesman of the international bankers, rushes into print to say what shall be done in regard to Mexico some citizens feel justified in entertaining a mild suspicion as to our purposes, or at least as to our agencies.

Why should our government be mysterious about its demands? Why should Mexico be secretive about its reply? There are more than technicalities at stake in this negotiation; there are the friendship and the intimate political, social and commercial relations of two great republican nations which are neighbors and which want to progress together in harmony and amity, in cordiality and healthful co-operation. It is the province of statesmen to find ways and means to enable them so to progress.

The obstacles which stand in the way of recognition and cordial relations should be dissipated by actual concession and consideration. If statesmen cannot solve the problem let the public know the facts. The combined wisdom and friendly disposition of the people of the two sister Republics will accomplish the results which both desire.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Simmons Has Novel Drive

Services of Trained Students Given Business Concerns in Exchange for Donations Interesting Idea

Simmons College is making a novel and most interesting appeal for money to develop the services which that institution is so splendidly performing.

It is offering the services of its trained students to those business men and corporations which may need them in exchange for a contribution to the college fund. The students out of loyalty to their Alma Mater are giving this service in exchange for contributions to the college by the business men or houses that receive them. The contribution is thus considered in the nature of a retainer to the college for the trained assistance which they may call upon the college to render them.

Simmons College is itself an unusual, interesting and most successful institution. It has filled a gap in our higher education. Those who appreciate the value of thoroughly educating and at the same time of technically training young women in almost all the departments of business will appreciate the value of Simmons College to the community. If there are those who appreciate the necessity of a college like Simmons and who can afford to help her in this campaign we assure them that their money could not be more efficiently expended. The girls Simmons College turns out help to make two blades of grass grow where only one grew before.

Indian Holy Men Mysteries

By H. W. LOFTS.
Written for Universal Service

LONDON, Oct. 19.—When one considers the profound interest taken in hypnotism, it is strange that a more general study has not been accorded to the "Yoga" system of India.

Yoga, or self-hypnotism, is one of the few sciences that the Western countries have not touched.

There are five indirect and three direct aids to Yoga. The five indirect aids consist in five abstensions, five observances, postures, restraint of breath and withdrawal of the sense organs, while the direct aids are fixed attention, contemplation and concentration.

In India the knowledge of Yoga is not confined to a few, but is taught by native scholars to all born in the priestly and ruling classes; and although it is occasionally practiced in youth and early manhood it is not generally adopted until one reaches the age of forty.

It is claimed that Yogis understand the cries of all living creatures, have power to transport their bodies without physical effort and are insensible to any maltreatment of the flesh.

The Cunning of the Fox

By Garrett P. Serviss

I WAS greatly interested in reading the other day some shrewd remarks on the character and manners of the fox, written by Mr. C. D. Stewart, who I admired years ago for his oddly romantic story of "The Fugitive Blacksmith."

The fox is in many ways the most interesting of all the quadrupeds, and anecdotes of his cunning are absorbing as the more thrilling stories of tigers and lions. I had some acquaintance with Reynard in my boyhood, and it was decidedly educational. I obtained then an impression which has remained unobliterated, that intellect is not the exclusive possession of man.

There were performances by foxes, some of which I saw, and many of which I heard of from eyewitnesses, that it seemed could only have been the result of inference from acute observation. How could any theory of mere unconscious nervous response to external stimuli explain a fox's action when, being pursued, he leaps upon a fence, or log, or rock, takes a long jump in a direction different from that in which he was running, for the evident purpose of making a gap in the trail of scent that his pursuing dogs over the ground leaves for the dogs, and then puts off at top speed toward a new quarter.

A Lesson in Initiative

A fox will leap across a stream, or will mount upon a fence and then jump far off from it on the same side from which he had approached it, resuming his flight in nearly a reverse direction, although the dogs were in sight at the time, and he had to pass them plainly within their range of view.

Such a performance would indicate that the fox had mastered the technical capacity as well as the observing powers of his pursuers, and felt sure that they would go on with their noses to the ground, slavishly following the scent, according to their training, even though he is before their eyes. The fox appreciates the value of initiative in which he gives a lesson that many humans ought to study.

Mr. Stewart makes one delightfully telling and philosophical remark about the conduct of a hunted fox. "The fox," says he, "finds safety by knowing what is going on around him; not by hiding in a hole in the ground."

He then proceeds to point out something new to me, as it may be to many others, viz., that, although the animal appears to have been brought to America from the British Isles, it has an entirely different character here from that which it has in England, particularly with reference to what has just above been said about refusing to hide from its enemies, preferring to keep them in sight, even though by so doing it may remain visible to them.

It seems, in this, to trust entirely to its own superior sagacity if given an equal knowledge of its surroundings. It is like an able general who says: "If I can see as much as the enemy can, I can beat him." So the fox climbs a rock, or a fence, or any available eminence, and takes a survey.

In England the fox exhibits no such spectacular self-confidence. When he hears the dogs in pursuit he makes for the first deep hole known to him and hides away in it. Experience has taught him that he will not be dug or smoked out, since the object of an English fox hunt is only to run down the quarry before it can get to its refuge.

This behavior is, then, a result of vulpine education. The English fox has studied his two-legged opponent so far that he even knows that the dogs will not be allowed to try to unearth him if he is once safely ensconced in his hole.

But when an animal of any kind, without alteration of its bodily make-up, learns to adjust its conduct to changed conditions, it thereby shows intelligence. It utilizes observation. It "puts this and that together" in its small mind and draws conclusions often more acute than those of a young child. It is not necessary to assume that there is any long or elaborate course of reasoning in such cases, but the dawn of reason is surely there.

Something Close to Brain

What is the purpose of the brain in animals lower than man? Its degree of organization corresponds generally with the type or amount of intelligence exhibited by its possessor. Intelligence depends upon knowledge, and knowledge is gained through use of the senses, while the most acute and specialized senses, such as sight and hearing, are those whose organs are the most directly and immediately associated with the brain.

This is no more true of a man than of a fox; shall we then say that the possession of a brain means the presence of intelligence in the one case but not in the other? The difference in the degree and quality of the intelligence no one would deny, and yet the fox occasionally outwits the man!

Paris Beggars in Gay Revels

By HARRY J. GREENWALL

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Many years ago, when I first came to Paris, I was told that the beggars of this city drank the finest champagne brut that ever came out of a bin. Although perfectly willing to put the matter to the test, I have always been denied the opportunity, and now—now the police have broken up the Beggars' Club. Never shall I be able to stretch my legs beneath their mahogany.

The Beggars' Club was in the Rue des Blance-Manties—a narrow thoroughfare between the Hotel de Ville and the Arts-et-Metiers. It is, I agree, not a very chic quarter, but rents are not very high there and it has the advantage of being picturesque. For your Paris beggar is a sybarite.

Neighbors complained of the noise. The beggars amused themselves just as the fashionable world does. Every night and all night, until the first flush of dawn appeared in the eastern skies, the beggars danced and drank and sang. Bacchanalian revels. Of course there were many who could not dance, the lame, the halt and the blind, and presumably the legless man who trundles himself around the boulevards in a little wooden box on wheels. I saw him at Nice last Winter.

MANY ALIENS ARE STILL ON U. S. SHIPS

By Nellie Bly.

PERHAPS American citizens can be hoodwinked part of the time. But certainly they can't be hoodwinked all of the time.

It is the intention of the real Americans in Washington to enact such rigid laws that it will be impossible for aliens to be employed upon any vessel flying the American flag. In order, if possible, to prevent the enactment of such a law, there has been a widespread pretense that it is not needed.

Word went out in the press throughout the United States that all vessels floating an American flag are to be manned by Americans. It sounded well and was the cause of much satisfaction among the powers in Washington and caused a momentary hope in the hearts of the long-abused and misused native-born American seaman.

But the results so far are not what one had been led to expect by the widespread propaganda. The liner George Washington, it was declared, had been made a hundred per cent. American. That was utterly false. Interpreters had to be sent on board with the inventory men. Not one man in the whole kitchen department can speak English—the chief cook, who has charge of ninety-eight men, doesn't speak ten words of English. An extra man has to be employed as interpreter. This is an expense that could be saved by the employment of Americans.

All Orders in German

Not a single order is issued in English unless by chance it is for something for which there is not an equivalent word in German. For instance, if two portions of lobster salad are ordered, the stewards say, "Zwie malle lobster salad."

One of the stewards came from Germany three trips ago as a work-a-way at one cent a month. He was put on this vessel as a second steward of the third-class and has now been promoted to second steward in first-class. He was for eleven years an officer in the German army.

One steward, who came over on work-a-way at one cent a month, has now been made saloon steward. He can scarcely speak English, and when he came on board had no passports or papers.

All these aliens give fictitious addresses. For they all live in Germany. Interpreters accompany these men for their first papers.

Not one of the aliens spends a nickel in the United States except the one dollar they are compelled to pay for their first papers. They eat on board while they are in port and carry all their money back to foreign homes.

The majority of these men are keeping up pensions for themselves in German with the money they get on American ships.

An American wrote me after his return on the last trip as follows:

"It's a hundred per cent. German ship all right. Take the American flag off and put on the German flag and there is nothing else to be done to make it all German. Fifty stowaways were taken on board in Germany. The majority of them were signed on during the passage over. Isn't it a pity that among the millions of Americans in the United States we can't get an American purser for an American ship, but must employ a Limey who hates America, and everything American? And a master at arms who is Greek and can't speak a word of English.

Given Low Rating

"Americans are no good, simply because they are Americans. There is not an American steward that can get a chance in the first-class. They are all put down in the steerage department. Everything that goes wrong on board the ship is explained by these aliens with, 'This is an American ship and can't be good.' All the crew excepting about three per cent. are foreigners. Still all the mismanagement and bad work is excused or explained away by the fact that it is an American ship, and you can't expect anything better. It really makes a fellow ashamed to acknowledge that he is an American on board this vessel. They all laugh about taking out their first papers 'cf' hold their jobs. They say the papers won't hurt them and that they won't need to go any farther."

American ships will never be Americanized and the problem of an economical American Merchant Marine will never be solved so long as Germans and Englishmen are retained as heads of departments. They are determined to put the American Merchant Marine out of business and they have millions of ways of doing it.

LAWS ARE NO BETTER THAN THE PEOPLE

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

THE best test of undesirable laws is their enforcement.

If laws are either behind the people or ahead of them, the people will nullify such laws through new legislation. We want the laws to be of our making or in harmony with our spirit.

When the American colonists objected to government without representation, or in any wise to be ruled from abroad, they were not merely negatively rebellious, but they asserted positively the principle: that Man must be the source of the laws by which he is to be governed.

Historic Case

An historic case in point, though remote from our own period, is the Emancipation Proclamation. Lincoln had said as a youth—when, in New Orleans, he saw a negress sold into slavery—"I'll hit that hard, when I get a chance!"

His chance came, on his accession to the Presidency; and again, with the secession of the Southern States. But it was nearly two years after, on January 1, 1863, that he freed both the Negro and the South by proclaiming emancipation.

Why did Lincoln delay so long the enactment of what was so dear to his heart? Because he was sufficiently practical in his ideality not to attempt its embodiment ahead of time; namely, before he could feel fairly assured that his act would be backed by the sympathy of at least a nearly unanimous North.

Doubtless, too, Lincoln's just and loving spirit wished to make sure that he was doing this confiscatory deed, not simply as the military measure of a momentary dictator, but as the announcement of the eternal principle of freedom, "with malice towards none, with charity for all."

That Lincoln was right in his hesitation to make his will the supreme law of the land is indicated by the considerable survival of essential slavery and of the spirit of enslavement, even to our day.

It is interesting to note that the rise of the tide of morality in the breasts of the people affects even the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. Which is as it should be—in a democracy!

According to the degree of their humanness and their temperamental sensitiveness to public sentiment these lofty judges are continuously influenced in their decisions by the increasingly humane temper of our times.

Human Interests

Of course, this refers more particularly to cases involving human interests rather than material concerns.

In a word, then, you need not be on the bench in order to be the interpreter, nor in legislative halls in order to be the maker, of laws.

As befits a democracy, we the people are the makers and the interpreters of the laws.

As a rule, the laws are no better than the people, which is, rightly, their source and their support.

If you want the laws of the country to be more nearly just and humane, the Protectors of Freedom and Equality, and the Guarantors of Opportunity, YOU must keep yourself supersensitive to these ideals, and develop a passion for their embodiment.

Legislators, whether in our town or in Washington, are our representatives, and not our rulers. If, with possibly superior wisdom and with better knowledge of, and devotion to the general need, they made laws ahead of our demand they would create laws "more honored in the breach than in the observance."

The vacuum between such laws and the common practice we would probably fill in with smug profession and hypocrisy.

In a sense, then, the laws are We, the People. If you want them better, improve yourself! Then you will demand better laws—and will get them.

HAVING TOO MANY IRONS IN THE FIRE

If you have something to do that is important, don't divide your forces.

It is better to do one thing well than to do a great many things indifferently well.

It is the little thing done a whole lot better than anyone else has or can do it which makes the doer famous.

And if he be the "one thing well" there is not so much worry and wear and tear on the system and consequently more joy in result.

"One thing well" before you take on more should be your motto.

It is better to own one home than to another, and before you know it matters are woven and interwoven till it seems as if the one thing could not be separated from the many.

But if you will start small enough and add on only as you can, understandingly and systematically, you will get far more comfort out of living and most [illegible] success.
